[Disclaimers]

- This doc has two writers. Lori (it/its) will be writing in mauve, and Wolfe (they/he/xe) will be writing in black.

- Any and all Personally Identifiable Information has been gathered from public sources such as Twitter/X and Tumblr posts. We didn't have to use underhanded methods to learn about the people we're about to discuss or the actions they've taken.

- There are transcriptions for most of the images shared in this doc. These transcriptions will correct typos and spell out acronyms for the sake of accessibility.

- The point of this document is to bring to light the abusive actions of the accused, and to address the greater problems in this fandom that facilitated their behavior. Do not harass anyone shown, mentioned, or discussed.

- If anyone has any further context or insight they'd like to give about this situation, we're happy to hear it.

[Opening Statements]

I feel the need to mention that I have DID and as an alter exist as a primary protector (alongside my slew of other roles). I've willingly gone out of my way to be as cordial as I could be with these lying, obsessive bullies. This is the final instance where I will be respectful. If any of you hurt Wolfe again, I will hurt you. This is my final plea and a genuine warning.

We've gone over this issue in fragments on and off these last few months, but this is all of it compiled and addressed at once for all to see and refer back to. If they refuse to read this and continue to lie through their teeth, then it just validates the points we're making.

Dynablade (aka Nova), Woolhaven-Defender (Genrefluid), and StrawberrycheesecakeHare spread false rumors to cover up their own bigotry, and their respective mutuals are enabling it. Strawberry has a long history of harassment and instigation, you need only look him up by name. There was nothing accidental about his actions.

For five months, Nova and Genrefluid have continued to directly harass us and create new rumors to justify their circle's treatment of us. We've repeatedly requested that they stop. We've blocked them. They claim to have blocked us. But they(Nova especially) continued to reach out through anonymous means and inspire others to do the same.

The direct harassment only stopped about two months ago as of writing this, when they were publicly called out by name. But they are still engaging in spreading false information about both of us. And either they or their friends are still blatantly stalking our blogs.

PsychicTerrain; formerly known as Dynablade, aka Nova (they/it)
Its alt accounts are RenegadeVictorious and Wishmkr. They are a white American in their late 20s from Florida who's been posting petty complaints about us since February. They are the primary source of harassment, and still can't bring themselves to drop the issue they created in the first place.

Update: A couple days after Wolfe vague posted on xis account about the doc, Nova overhauled their account. If you didn't feel like you'd done anything wrong, I don't see why you're running now.

Please be mindful of the spelling if you choose to look them up, there's an unrelated person with nearly the exact blog name; just spelled with two Ns.

These particular mutuals are being named for their direct participation.

[StrawberryCheesecakeHare] (they/he)

A serial harasser and abuser who’s known to specifically target black trans people and CSA survivors. He was very active in these people’s circles when Woolhaven initially dropped. While he is the originator of some rumors, he has not been particularly actively/recently involved (we can’t prove that, anyways).

And finally, people who don't seem directly connected to the above, but chose to stir the pot anyways:

AlanArts16 and cultofthe-lamb-confessions.

To everyone I've just listed:

You may not have contributed equally, but you have all contributed to the problem in some way, shape, or form. I've found that the vast majority of you are adults, despite certain people's claims that it's a bunch of teenagers I'm beefing with.

So many of the people I just named regularly complain about the toxicity of the fandom… yet here they are, directly contributing to that toxic environment. This doc will be addressing all the allegations made against me (Wolfe) and Lori, the toxic mentality that facilitated this harassment and other's casual support of it, and finally, touching on the ways racism thrives in this fandom (and others).

You can reblog all the pro-Palestine and Juneteenth posts you want, it is performative. And you mistake that performance for allyship, when the only people you're allied with are the bigoted friends you're protecting and enabling. You all don't get to praise yourselves for pretending to be 'woke' to win fandom arguments.

If this "ruins everyone's fun" so be it, lol. I've had enough. This circle's idea of "fun" depends on their ability to hurt others as they please. We know we're not the only ones they've done this to. This isn't about Marchosias. This isn't even about Cult of the Lamb. It never was, and it's time for everyone to stop pretending otherwise.

[Meet Our Detractors]

I'm not going to screenshot Wolfe's responses or my comments on these, as this portion exists to document the kind of harassment (via anonymous messages) that we have been facing since February. They'll be out of order, but mind the dates. If you want to see the entire posts, you can go to Wolfe's account and input "cotl asks" and "mm asks". You'll have to scroll a bit, but they're there. There's more that have been sent, such as "kys" (which was deleted) and various baseless accusations of harassment.

Judging by their writing style and flavor of rumor, I believe this to be Genrefluid. “Insulting the sheep to defend Marchosias” is something they suggested as true and parrot as fact now despite neither Wolfe nor I engaging in that behavior. Our opinions on the sheep and Marchosias are separate and always have been.

Also, their friend renegadevictorious posted an anonymous submission through this blog where they compared real life poc to animals. Like saying the sheep's gray skin was reminiscent of brown/black skin and their wool was like curly/coily hair. That's genuinely harmful to say but because they agree with the masses, they don't receive the same backlash. What is the standard?

I've given it two days, so I'm going to officially confront you on the choice to publish a false racism accusation despite knowing that both myself and Wolfe have been nonstop harassed by the person who sent in said accusation. I told you this already. You are not a neutral third party when you put a target on someone else's back with ZERO evidence. This has never been about "racism" because what I've said about these characters (who aren't indicative of any real life group of people) isn't fucking racist. What is racist is the shit Woolhaven Defender's friend renegadevictorious sent in. What is racist is her gathering up all renegadevictorious sent in. What is racist is her gathering up all her friends to harass Wolfe (who is a person of color, a real one and not a fictional sheep) for months atp. I'm leaving you unblocked so that you can read this and block me yourself.

Originally this was at the bottom of the queue, but I'm putting out now due to conflict that has been happening on the blog. After this I will not be accepting any more submissions on the topics of:

Narilamb's popularity (good or bad)

The lambs' status as colonizer or indiginous group

The former has died down as the latter has picked up, but I do not wish for the entire blog to be this debate going back and forth. Enough posts have been made on either side of the argument. I have been rather lenient on what gets posted because I want this to be a safe space where everyone has equal voice, but I am done with the blog being used as a place to get into fights and being primarily dominated by these fights.

I appreciate you all.

And I have to laugh. What about posting targeted harassment makes the community feel safe and equal? Why were you lenient about posts mocking and criticizing real people—but you put your foot down at criticizing the fictional characters? You've done the exact opposite of giving everyone an "equal voice".

Don't pretend for a second that this was a back and forth argument. You only ever posted their side. I made a single submission with my thoughts on how adamant people were that Woolhaven was a colonialism allegory based on the "land acknowledgement", when that doesn't make any sense. That was not posted.
Lori submitted its analysis on the lambs' and Ewefalls history, and it was deleted within thirty minutes (shortly after Genrefluid commented on it with an attempt to discredit it with a lie, as per usual).

These submissions are weaponizing baseless racism accusations to control what people say, think, and do. It silences anyone who disagrees with their headcanon that the lambs are representative of an indigenous group. Something that isn't canon to the game. These performative acts of "anti-racism" are what makes fandom so inhospitable for people of color.

-You’re Frauds

(by the way, if denying the lambs being indigenous is racist, doesn’t that make all of these people racist by their standards?):

Yngya nodded, then her eyes glowed blue for a moment.

A scribe is on her way.

I appreciate this talk. As much harm as your people have done, we are tired of constantly being at war. It'll be nice to have proper peace on the mountain again.

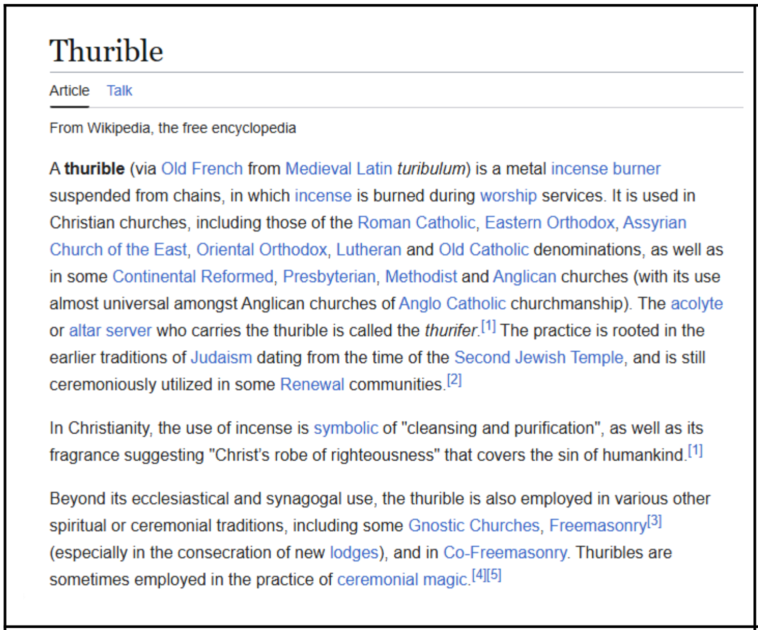
Because of your respect, I'll accept your apology. However, there are others here that also require one. Sariel and Zainab, for starters. Yorabba as well, since Zainab is his wife. I don't expect you to apologize to them right away, especially if it puts your life in danger. Only when it feels safe to do so. I cannot predict the actions of my flock, but I know how badly



Thuribile

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

A thurible (via Old French from Medieval Latin turibulum) is a metal incense burner suspended from chains, in which incense is burned during worship services. It is used in Christian churches, including those of the Roman Catholic, Eastern Orthodox, Assyrian Church of the East, Oriental Orthodox, Lutheran and Old Catholic denominations, as well as in some Continental Reformed, Presbyterian, Methodist and Anglican churches (with its use almost universal amongst Anglican churches of Anglo Catholic churchmanship). The acolyte or altar server who carries the thurible is called the thurifer.[1] The practice is rooted in the earlier traditions of Judaism dating from the time of the Second Jewish Temple, and is still ceremoniously utilized in some Renewal communities.[2]

In Christianity, the use of incense is symbolic of "cleansing and purification", as well as its fragrance suggesting "Christ's robe of righteousness" that covers the sin of humankind.[1]

Beyond its ecclesiastical and synagogal use, the thurible is also employed in various other spiritual or ceremonial traditions, including some Gnostic Churches, Freemasonry[3] (especially in the consecration of new lodges), and in Co-Freemasonry. Thuribles are sometimes employed in the practice of ceremonial magic.[4][5]

As the sermon concluded, residents started to gather into small groups as they poured out of the temple. That way they can get things done more efficiently. Levi, Makena, and Thaddeus were going to help rebuild the hospital, Asher, Noya, Ira, and Hava were going to help rebuild buildings.

Zainab, despite feeling fatigued, was getting ready to leave Woolhaven, her hands resting on her lap.

cold-mother-yngya answered:

(Yorabba) He entered the temple once he noticed people leaving, and made his way over to Zainab.

How are you doing, Zain?

He asked, holding out his hand to help her up.

Scenarios in which the lambs practice a form of Christianity (a predominantly white religion that was used to oppress indigenous people across the world), follow European or American cultural practices, and hold primarily eurocentric values… You guys sure don't treat the lambs like you think they're an indigenous group.

At the time of that submission, the narrative was that the lambs were coded to be either Aboriginal or Torres Straits Islanders. These groups have their own religions and cultural practices that are not closed off from people outside their communities. There is no excuse for your native-coded characters to be completely scrubbed of any sign of native heritage, AU or not.
(EDIT: The current narrative, apparently, is that the lambs are an ethnic minority. Which, like… great. Feel free to think that. We've never argued against this specifically. A blatant goalpost shift.)

Y'all don't actually think the lambs are native-coded or any sort of allegorical representation. It's all performative. It's the excuse you're using to have an acceptable excuse to harass people you don't like for petty personal reasons.

Because if our denial of the lambs being an indigenous group is racist, wouldn't that make all the people shown above racist? Where's their flack? Why aren't they being banned from community spaces? It's almost like it's not really about combatting racism...

[Racism]

There's been a lot of accusations thrown our way in the realm of racism and "ethnocentrism", as well as criticisms about how we speak of fiction… But first, let's go over the things all of you have done and said. Don't throw stones in a glass house, amiright?

(Sariel) Let me make one thing clear. If you bring another wolf into Woolhaven without discussing with me, or Mother herself, then the wolf will be executed and you will be disgraced and banished, am I understood?

It's my job to make sure everything is running smoothly, and safely. Do not put ours and Mother's safety at risk simply because you want a pet. The wolves have their own leader. Let them go to him if they need help from now on.

The desire to put Sariel in a headlock and knock some sense into him was strong, but understanding the situation and wanting to prevent a pointless fight, as even stronger. She let out a deep sigh

Makena, to Sariel: Yes, yes, may the cold mother have mercy on me

Makena opens the door to the healer's hut, setting the pack on the floor as she pulled out the smelling salts.

Makena: Okay, he needs to leave.
Makena: Sariel is crossed with me right now, and I dont want anymore trouble because of my hasty decesion.
Makena: ((didn't like that pet comment either I might have to have a word with him about that...))

Zainab: Alright

Nova has repeatedly harped on how we should be mindful about how we speak about fictional characters who represent real groups of people… because what we say and how we say it could harm those real people. I guess it doesn't matter what Genrefluid says, cause you like them.

If the majority of you in this circle—at the very least, the loudest ones—all agree that Woolhaven is a racial and/or ethnic allegory… and that the lambs represent a racial or ethnic minority… while the wolves represent white colonizers…

What business does Genrefluid, a self-identified white person, have roleplaying as a black or brown person who discriminates against white people?

This surpasses the scope of the alleged colonialism. Woolhaven-Defender regularly refers to the lambs/sheep as a "race" in itself. To uncritically call a mixed-race child a half-breed or an "abomination" is racism and I know they're doing it with zero self awareness because this roleplay/the blog's narrative is not critical of racism.

Temi's stance is not considered racist by the above roleplayers. Even the characters being subjected to it (the wolves) think it's fair for the lambs to judge and discriminate against them based on their "race"... because the lamb's disdain for the wolves is justified in this AU. (Nevermind that it was written to be justified?)

Others who regularly interact with this blog share that sentiment. Here's an entire discussion they had about how the lambs aren't really racist because the wolves are colonialist settlers in this AU.

"It's not racist, because there's a really good reason for it." What do y'all think racist people think about their views?

These 'tropes' are based in the white supremacist belief that POC want revenge against them for what their predecessors did, and seek to oppress the "majority" just as they were for being a minority. Observe your thought-processes critically. Why do you think that racism "isn't really racism" if there's a good reason for it?

You can't just pick and choose when the story is an allegory, it either is one or it isn't. And to be extra clear, this isn't about "Oh, what your fictional characters act like is indicative of your actual beliefs." It's that you are engaging with harmful rhetoric uncritically, and it's being reflected in your real-life actions and beliefs.

If this AUs Sariel doesn’t believe he’s racist, and Cold-Mother-Yngya (who roleplays as him) doesn’t believe this Sariel is racist… Then none of that is fictional. That’s a projection of your very real beliefs onto a character.

thank you for opening submissions i literally just needed to get this off my chest. you don't even have to post it to be honest. ANYWAYS. as someone who does like the character myself and can acknowledge that everything in game is both fictional + no one is really morally great here!

marchosias has a canon note written by him of him noticing the graves all over ewefall, yet he builds over them anyways. we know lambs had to still be alive while he was taking their ancestral home for himself because lamb is an infant when the attack happens, but lives to be an adult and is found "with a large herd" according to hagar, thus making them displaced. if you break the statues of him in multiplayer in the temples, a yngya statue returns there. multiple NON LAMB npcs state that the mountains ARE the lambs home, and the rot is explicitly referred to as their collective grief. but yeah, sure. tell me more about how marchosias isn't a colonizer and is actually a hero even though he's starving his followers and manipulating them, even though he has a literal heart of a heretic a la the bishops and is clearly a (non religious) cult leader in his own right. tell me more how the lambs are just White People despite the way baraq/koka/chazaq are dressed, and how sheep irl ORIGINATE in the mountainous regions near those cultural places. oh yes, lets pretend the characters with very curly hair and dark skin who faced a genocide couldn't possibly be coded as an ethnic minority -damn who said that… must have been the wind…….

“Who said that?” is a phrase Nova regularly uses, just to add.

The specific claim I'm going to address for being racist:

> Oh yes, lets pretend the characters with very curly hair and dark skin who faced a genocide couldn't possible be coded as an ethnic minority group.

The curly "hair" that the sheep have is wool. That "dark skin" they're depicted with is also wool. You're doing that thing where you refer to all minorities, but you are very clearly talking about black people. Since, hair that is seen as "woolly" is unique to African, Negrito, (certain) Pacific Islander, and Torres Strait people.

Not the biggest deal, but it's worth pointing out. The kinky or curly hair that these groups have is not remotely comparable to wool. To say that it is, is* racist. People didn't seem to believe me when I said as much, because the above submission is still up on cultofthe-lamb-confessions as of 7/10/2026… And it's apparently a common belief in the fandom. So I'm going to thoroughly explain why it is harmful and incredibly racist.

Here's a basic hair texture chart. My hair texture is 4B! Just a little fun fact. Contrary to popular belief, wool would fall under Type 1. Technically. The fiber of wool doesn't really resemble human hair, period, but my point is more that wool is straight or crimped. Not curly. Not kinky. Not even wavy.

To really hammer the point home here's a cool quote:
"[...] the adjective "woolly" in reference to Afro-hair is a misnomer in connoting the high heat insulation derivable from the true wool of sheep. Instead, the relatively sparse density of Afro-hair, combined with its springy coils actually results in an airy, almost sponge-like structure,"

Here’s some images of wool from various breeds of sheep. If I squint at it, I can sorta see how it might resemble the textured hair of a human being if you’ve never seen it for yourself up-close before.

However. Important detail here. The only time wool looks curly like this is when it is dirty and matted. Type 3—and particularly Type 4—hair being perceived as being the same as matted hair is a racist stereotype on its own. A sheep with curly “hair” is a dirty, matted sheep. That cannot be separated from the idea of a sheep’s wool being “curly”.

Even if it’s indirectly, saying that having dirty, matted hair makes a character coded to be a person of color is unfathomably racist.

This is what clean and de-matted wool looks like! Brushing out textured hair detangles it, but it does not make it straight.

washed and cleaned wool carded wool
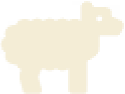
yarn!

Racial coding isn't always positive or neutral traits—especially when it's occurring unintentionally.
If you genuinely think the devs made them sheep to indicate them being people of color, that's something to critique, not praise. "Yeah, the group that is literally the symbol for obedience in-game? They're inherently black people."



What next, are they going to give the lambs big, red lips? Make their "skin" a shade of grey or black? Hmmm? Should I list out any more stereotypes?

Above all else, you can't just say that an animal is innately a certain race or ethnicity based on the traits of that animal. And it doesn't matter what animal it is. Comparing black people to monkeys and apes is the most notorious example, but it's not the only case where it applies.

That’s dehumanization. Dehumanizing black people—or any race, for that matter—is racist.

Disclaimer: If you want to depict the lambs as people of color for funsies, be my fucking guest. But you should be aware of whether you’re coding characters based on racist stereotypes.

[Ethnicity]

Let’s address this too, since Nova saw it fit to bring up. It completely misrepresented what I said, naturally. It is the only way they’re able to make themselves the victim in this situation—by lying.

I responded to the confession Nova submitted, because I knew it was directed at me. Obviously, it was directed at me. The ask requesting that the blog-owner open submissions came around the same time as some anons on the topic. I corrected the blatant misinformation, questioned some of their logic, and pointed out that some of their “evidence” was just racism.

And I was an asshole about it. Full transparency lol. I’m sick of this idiot being propped up to spread their agenda and the lies to go with it.

This is the point I was addressing (left), and my response to it (right).

But yes, thank you for providing further evidence that these mfers are white, ya clown. "near those places" and then you name an entire continent lol.

Someone discussed this with me privately, and I now understand my wording on this was poor and did not consider how whiteness is weaponised in these regions to oppress groups that don't pass as such. So, it doesn't matter how the American government classifies them. What race Middle Eastern people are is a nuanced topic that doesn't have black and white answers. And I shouldn't make broad statements about that. That's my bad.

My point was more that race and ethnicity are separate identities, and none of these ethnicities exclude the lambs from being white. And also that it's weird to go "look at how they're dressed, obviously they're people of color" when they're not actually representing the fashion of any particular ethnic group.

Overall, it's weird to be aggressively against considering the Woolhaven lambs white specifically. You think it's tasteless? Cool, that's your opinion. I think it's tasteless to deem Marchosias and Hagar white, but you don't see me making accusations over it. Because it's not inherently bigoted in either direction. They are both headcanons about characters that are devoid of any real, intentional racial coding.

Just because you feel really confident about something does not mean it is canon. Every single one of these people is old enough to understand that. There is a difference between something being heavily implied, and you feeling strongly about something.

I will be debunking the colonialist allegory theory at a later date, on my own time, because I am tired of seeing it and you're all very rude about it solely because you think it's canon because it's "so obvious".

But for now, have this. Nova sent me this link about the criteria used to determine if a group is indigenous. I actually did read it, and I noticed that the Woolhaven lambs failed to meet the first and primary criteria.

> "The core idea: who came first?"

The article itself says that the absence of the first and primary criteria of identifying an indigenous group makes all the other criteria negligible. It says that it's because being first is what differentiates natives from migrants, who would also meet many of the "key characteristics" listed, such as being displaced and being a marginalized group.

Yngya says explicitly that they aren't from Ewefall. Ewefall is where she took her cult to protect herself from the Bishops. The piles of rotten God corpses indicate that there were other groups on the mountain before them and while they were there. Rami says that they want to go home, and that Woolhaven isn't that place.

Everyone has an ancestral home, not just indigenous groups. You didn't just spawn into existence from pixie dust.

Food for thought. :|

-Misuse of "Terra Nullius"

This one is just y'all maliciously choosing to misunderstand me because, as the DMs exchanged show, we are all very much on the same page about what terra nullius means. That the land was not actually uninhabited.

The only source you will find that says that terra nullius means “empty land” is the fucking AI Overview on Google. The literal translation of terra nullius is “nobody’s land”. As in, “it doesn’t belong to anyone even though there are people living on it”.

It is not racist to say you can’t colonize empty land, because you can’t. Y’all are misusing this term on multiple levels. I would argue you’re validating it (which would be racist) by agreeing with the notion that the land they stole was ever uninhabited (i.e. empty). The land was never empty. *That’s the whole point. The land was taken.

Ewefall is repeatedly described as an abandoned mountain. Yngya’s described as dead and forgotten. Marchosias came across Ewefall and Woolhaven (which are separate locations) before Yngya’s return. A dead body cannot claim ownership over anything. Neither can a ghost. Like, do you guys hear yourselves?

"I am Yngya. I once brought winter to the Lands; but I was slain by the Bishops and left here to rot."
"But you have resurrected what little there is left of me, and awoken winter once more."

“But you have resurrected what little there is left of me.”

“Resurrected”

There is no hard evidence that suggests Marchosias started living on the mountain while lambs were still on it. The story goes out of its way to make it clear that he didn’t. We can see, with our eyes, that he did not take over Woolhaven. Because Woolhaven... Is the HUB area.

-Colonialism

To say that the lambs have a right to dictate who lives anywhere on the mountain is pro-colonialism. And this applies in every situation. Yes, even if you see them as an indigenous group/ethnic minority/marginalized community/etc.

It wasn't colonialism because they were settlers living on native-owned land. It was colonialism because they removed and/or assimilated the natives living there.

I don't claim to be an expert on all things related to race and ethnicity, but this is a specific branch of white supremacy I'm very acquainted with lol. This idea that marginalized groups want to pull an Uno-Reverse on their oppressors and give them a taste of their own medicine.

Returning stolen land to Indigenous groups has never meant forcibly removing the people who presently live on the land so that only Indigenous people can live on it (thus creating an ethnostate). That's a strawman created to discredit the landback movement. It's not progressive or "supportive of Indigenous people" to write a narrative about a scenario made to fearmonger.

It would still be colonization, even if done as an eye-for-an-eye retaliation. It would still be racist, even if done by people of color. It would still be an act of violence, even if committed by an oppressed minority. Like? This is just subconscious white supremacy that y'all haven't unlearned—and y'all never will if you refuse to even acknowledge that's where this rhetoric comes from.

Being a victim of violence does not make you some untouchable force that people are not allowed to critique, disparage, or despise. Being abused is not a justification for abusing others. A victim continuing the cycle of abuse does not mean they deserved to be abused in the first place. (And it also doesn't mean they deserve to be abused by a new party either).

But you can't just pretend that they haven't become an abuser themselves because of their trauma. This stance does not hurt victims. No matter how many coats of "progressive" paint you wanna slap on it, or how horrific the scenario you want to fabricate; this is a completely reasonable stance. No one has the right to abuse anyone.

And inb4 some dumbass says it: a victim retaliating against or defending themselves from their abuser is not abuse.

-Character Coding

If you haven’t noticed by now, I’m a black person of color. My cultural background influences my views on Woolhaven as much as all of yours does. Why does your view as white people—which the majority of you are—get to be the only cultural lens people are allowed to view Woolhaven through?

You don’t think that’s maybe… influencing what you think an oppressed group looks like? What racial discrimination looks like? How a marginalized group would go about protecting themselves from their oppressors? Etcetera?

A community based on the exclusion of others is generally frowned upon, but it’s particularly common in online LGBTQ+ spaces. And you’re not gonna believe where that stems from. /sarcasm

There’s a world of difference between segregation and fostering a private community.

Let’s take a moment to consider the author's intent. I really. Really. Doubt that the writing and design teams at Massive Monster went into Woolhaven with the intentions of being as racist as humanly possible by painting Natives as violent, selfish, and a literal disease on the earth.
Because those are all things the Woolhaven lambs are. Explicitly. Canonically. Them being victims of genocide does not change that.

If you find that to be a problematic way to depict “genocide victims”, take it up with the fucking devs. We didn’t write it. But that is what is happening in this game. The lambs are the rot. The rot is a destructive disease that causes suffering. Y’all can’t be stroking your egos over your academic prowess, and how everyone but you is media illiterate, if you cannot connect dots as obvious and simple as that.

Your aren’t the Gods of fucking Nuance you pretend to be if you can’t even acknowledge that, even if what happened to them was awful, the Disciples still made a choice. They chose to use the power they had left to commit genocide themselves (with the intentions of ultimately committing omnicide). The warmongering assholes became the embodiment of suffering that kills and hurts everything around them—including themselves! Big Shocker.

Why the fuck would they depict people of color that way? Why would y'all want them to? Why do y'all want to so damn bad?

Anyways.

Lori is not a “guy”. And I think these people who are also nonbinary know they have no business addressing a stranger with whatever gendered term they see fit. These descriptors are clearly not needed. Just our names sufficed. I feel this was phrased in this way to purposefully misgender it.

You’ve all demonstrated that you look for acceptable targets to harass and talk down to. First, many of you decided I was white. Now you’re deeming Lori a man?

Curious. Just a coincidence though, right?

but like yeah. i dont have an issue w trans fem interpretations or headcanons i literally have one that im sure would get me torn to pieces if i posted it publicly (gestures at above lol)

but its the fact that like. we Have women. you can headcanon them as trans fem if you want and thats fine. you can headcanon the men either way in canon too. Its Fine. but why do they insult every character who IS a woman In The Text. and then act like theyre being #woke by making the canon racist trans fem they're literally inventing new and unique ways to torture me specifically in fandom spaces lately

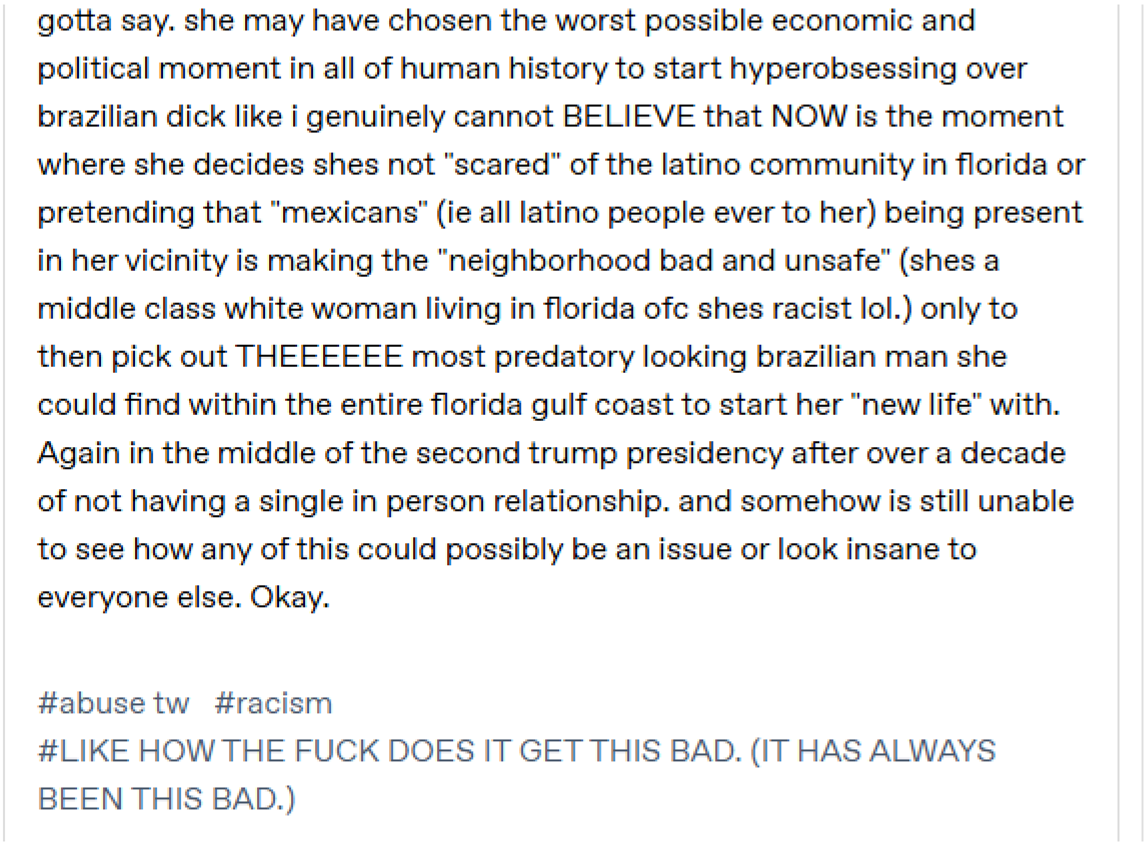
Lori’s pronouns are exclusively it/its for people who do not know it. It’s listed on their Discord profile and Tumblr. And Nova clearly had been lurking and reading our messages in the MM Server, so they would see everyone using the correct pronouns for Lori if it really couldn’t be bothered to check. This is blatantly intentional misgendering.

Nova’s fixation on policing transfem headcanons is bizarre and petty. And how curious that this is the subject the most recent anon I received harped on… A transfem headcanon that literally doesn’t exist, as they are talking about Marchosias here based on their “canon racist” comment.

[Xenophobia]

Nova being xenophobic towards Brazilians and demonstrating a shocking lack of self awareness:



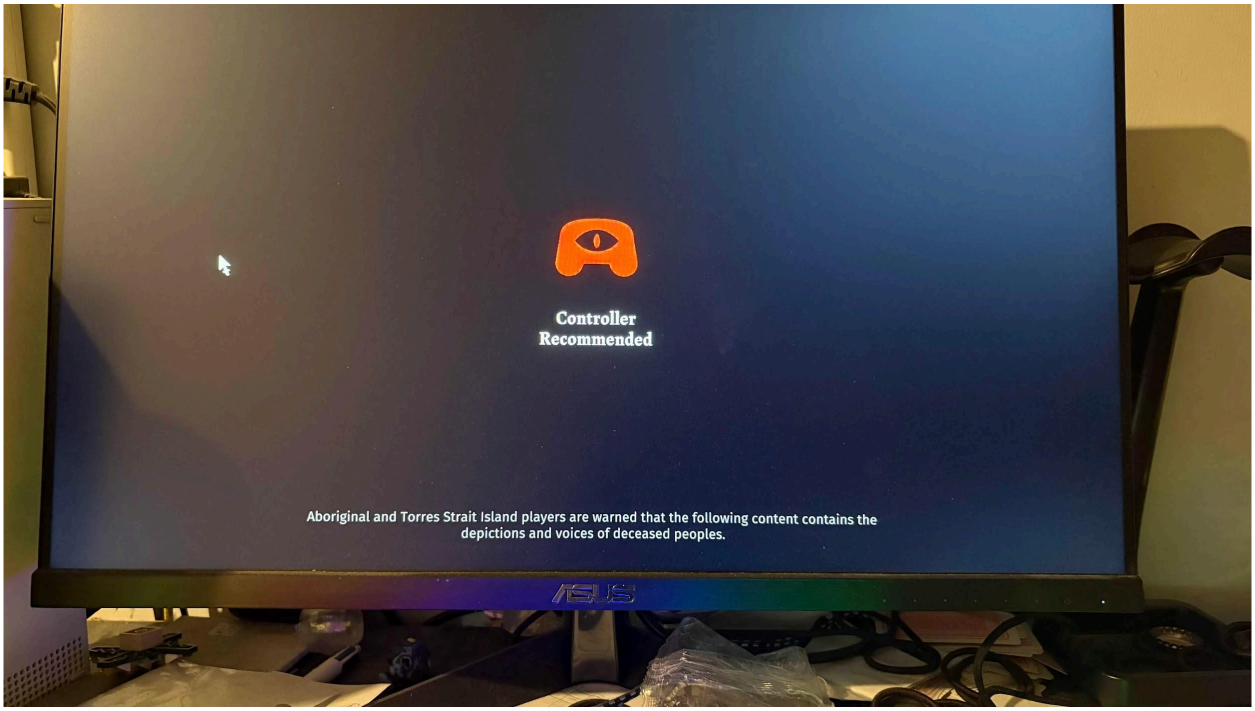
gotta say. she may have chosen the worst possible economic and political moment in all of human history to start hyperobsessing over brazilian dick like i genuinely cannot BELIEVE that NOW is the moment where she decides shes not "scared" of the latino community in florida or pretending that "mexicans" (ie all latino people ever to her) being present in her vicinity is making the "neighborhood bad and unsafe" (shes a middle class white woman living in florida ofc shes racist lol.) only to then pick out THEEEEEE most predatory looking brazilian man she could find within the entire florida gulf coast to start her "new life" with. Again in the middle of the second trump presidency after over a decade of not having a single in person relationship. and somehow is still unable to see how any of this could possibly be an issue or look insane to everyone else. Okay.

#abuse tw #racism
#LIKE HOW THE FUCK DOES IT GET THIS BAD. (IT HAS ALWAYS BEEN THIS BAD.)

They are also being misogynistic. No, Nova, your mother abusing you doesn’t give you the right to be a misogynist or insult her using misogynistic rhetoric. You call me a misogynist over disliking a fictional female character when you yourself degrade your own mother sexually for being attracted to a Brazilian man that you dislike. This is just the shit you say publicly too. No telling how you speak about real life women in private.

[Misinformation]

I spent a long while trying to find the land acknowledgement that people were using to call the sheep indigenous people but never could. What I did find was a warning (not my photo) at the beginning of the Woolhaven DLC that reads as follows:

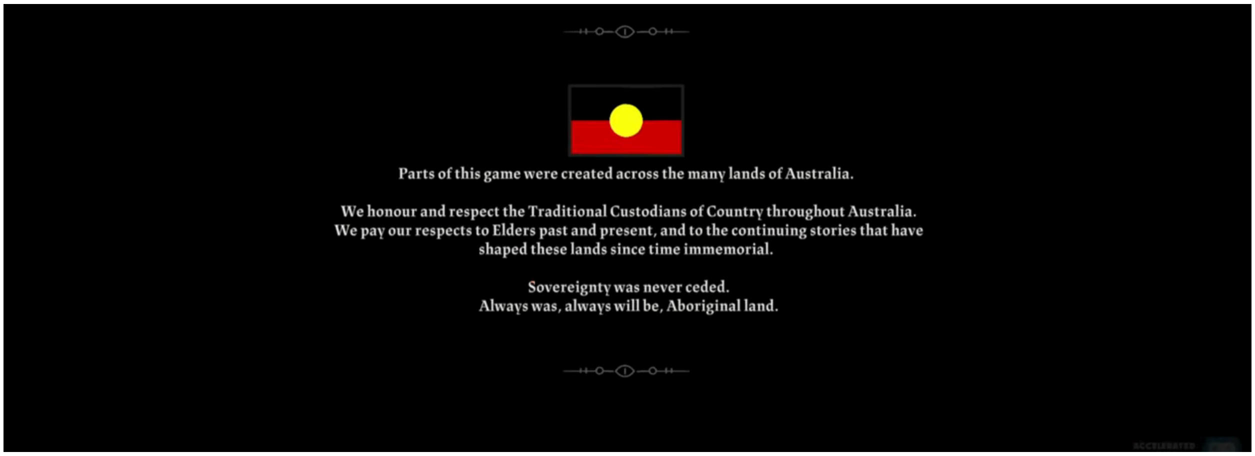


Aboriginal and Torres Strait Island players are warned that the following content contains the depictions and voices of deceased peoples.

"Aboriginal and Torres Strait Island players are warned that the following content contains the depictions and voices of deceased peoples."

This exists due to the presence of Narayana Johnson's (River Boy) voicework in game. He died in April 2025 during Woolhaven development. It was not added as a secret message about the sheep being directly based on indigenous Australians. Land acknowledgments themselves are for acknowledging that the land an event is taking place, organization is based, etc. belongs to the respective native people of that area. It's not about fictional characters.

EDIT: Wolfe found this. It's at the end of Woolhaven. If this is the acknowledgement in question, then yes. It's a land acknowledgement. About the actual land. NOT the fictional sheep. It doesn't exist about or for the fictional sheep.



Parts of this game were created across the many lands of Australia.

We honour and respect the Traditional Custodians of Country throughout Australia.
We pay our respects to Elders past and present, and to the continuing stories that have shaped these lands since time immemorial.

Sovereignty was never ceded.
Always was, always will be, Aboriginal land.

[Zionism]

This one's addressed towards basically the whole friend group. And to everyone else in the fandom that agrees with this thought process. There's something so odd to me how you can paint yourselves as supportive of Palestine, and act like you genuinely care about the genocide in Gaza happening, without… understanding… what Zionism is?

Without realizing that the rhetoric you say justify the lambs' actions is word-for-word the exact same rhetoric that is being used to justify Israel's actions. All the way down to the fact that their victims allegedly attacked first, so that makes it okay for soldiers to murder all of them. When it doesn't, even if they did.

Whatever race or ethnicity you think the lambs represent is wholly irrelevant. You're using Zionist rhetoric to justify their actions. Which means that you're expressing that you believe it's okay to commit genocide in certain situations. To say that the Lamb had the right to cull the Free Pack for XYZ reasons is an admission that you believe there are justified reasons to commit genocide.

But we're the ones who are saying harmful things about genocide victims? Tell me, how should the perpetrators of genocide decide what groups do and don't deserve it? What's the process for determining when racist rhetoric is acceptable and justified to use? Enlighten me.

A quick summary of Zionism:

> -Zionists justified their claim to Palestine by emphasizing historical ties to it[13][c]
> -Advocates of Zionism have viewed it as a national liberation movement for the repatriation of an indigenous people [...] to the homeland of their ancestors.
> -Opponents of Zionism often characterize it as a supremacist,[32][33] colonialist,[34] or racist ideology,[35] or as a settler colonialist movement.[36]

So… are you all against colonialism, or are you not? Do you actually support Palestine? Because you can't be pro-Palestine or anti-colonialism while also supporting this ideology in any scenario. There are not "special situations" where Zionism, being a supremacist, or genocide is justified. The game may be fiction, but this ideology is very real.

To quote Nova: "[...] Real Life victims of genocide exist in reality, and the comments you make about both (fictional) parties can impact and harm those people irl!"

And this is why you can’t just toss an allegory into any piece of media and declare it as fact. If the allegory you all believe is present was actually written into Woolhaven, we are left with the following scenarios: A marginalized group committing genocide against descendants of their oppressor as revenge… Coughs. An indigenous community indiscriminately killing people in an act of land reclamation, doing unto others what was once done to them to “get even” and form an ethnostate. Cough coughs.

These are examples of how oppressors view marginalized groups and their desires to recover from the wrongs inflicted on them. To call these views problematic would be an understatement. These views, again, align with white supremacist rhetoric.

[Nova’s Obsession]

Finally, a section dedicated to Nova specifically. Because their fixation on us is obsessive and they’ve all but confessed that they are the one behind the bulk of the continued harassment. This is someone we’ve never spoken to outside of their throwaway and the anonymous asks they sent in. They’ve never directly interacted with us or our friends. And yet their posts show that they have been bitching about both of us for quite some time. Long before May.

My tone is harsher when it comes to this individual. I hate them. They’ve terrorized someone I care about for months. They’ve targeted myself as well. They lie and lie and lie. No more. No fucking more. Here’s the attention you desperately wanted, Nova. I hope it hurts.

That being said…

Everything I know about you has been against my will. I have no recollection of ever speaking to you. I don’t know if you are intentionally lying, confused, or experiencing psychosis. Whatever is wrong with you is your responsibility to tend to. You ran away when I called you out by name which was pathetic but unsurprising. You’re a coward at heart. You’ve hidden your face for months, all so you could get away with relentlessly hounding Wolfe (and I). It is not our fault that you cannot emotionally regulate. It is not our fault that you are obsessed with both of us. It is not our fault that your mother is abusive.

You are not the only person to have ever suffered. To act as if you are somehow above what you’ve done and deflect the blame onto us is laughable. I’ve been in therapy since 2017. I am not like you. I don’t lash out at people because of my trauma. I unlearned that behavior when I was fifteen. I wanted to break the cycle of abuse, and I fucking have. You, on the other hand, have not. I’m not one of your spineless friends who enables you, Nova. You clearly don’t want to become a better person. You are content being a miserable piece of shit who terrorizes people over the internet.

The person who found your sniveling ass was Wolfe, by the way. They showed me all the stupid shit you’ve been blabbing about. I’m now aware that you misgender me every chance you get. That you’ve claimed I was a misogynist for disliking Yngya and having a transfem headcanon (one which you made up). I have never headcanonned Marchosias as transfem. I would wager that it’s more misogynistic for you and your friends to see it/its (the pronouns I go by exclusively), they/them, and she/her (these two sets are specifically for my close friends to use) in my bio and go about calling me by masc titles. The way you seek to punish me via transphobia gives me the impression that you believe I am Transmisogyny Affected.

Did you read the comments I left under every hate anon Wolfe answered? They were about you, weren't they? I hope I hurt your feelings. I hope that you never get over it. I hope that this doc runs you off for good. You're deleting evidence, but it's too late. We already have everything we need.
Wolfe and I are not going to baby you or obey your whims because you throw a fit and hide behind your useful idiot friends. We don't know you. We don't want to know you. We aren't going to stop enjoying COTL because you don't like our theories. You could've just blocked us, but no. It had to be all this.

Is this what you do for attention and validation? I've told you over and over again to leave us the fuck alone. Are you incapable of understanding what "no" and "stop" mean? I've been kinder than any of you deserve in my posts about this situation, yet you have kept pushing. If you want to be cruel, I will be crueler.

Backing down once you've been caught will not absolve you. You have earned this doc. Congratulations, we have to make a fucking PSA about you.

Now, let's look at who you truly are.

So, according to Nova, Wolfe and I have: harassed over 15 people, “blew up” their DMs on the sideblog RenegadeVictorious, are neo nazis, and created a “new form of race science”.

Would love to hear from these fifteen victims of ours, who I presume to be either people I’ve proven are liars, the idiots sending hate anons, or some other hypothetical person Nova created. If you send hate mail to someone and they and/or their friends cuss you out… you aren’t a victim of anything besides your own hubris.

I feel like the “neo nazi” accusation/Hitler comparison is so insane that it’s not worth trying to debunk. Or that we created “new race science” by criticizing fictional sheep. There’s nothing supporting their outlandish claims. They’re just yapping for attention as is their wont.

Neither Wolfe nor I have interacted with you on your sideblog, RenegadeVictorious. I in particular have never spoken to you at all. You just couldn’t help yourself but instigate a fight with Wolfe and indirectly expose yourself as the idiot on the throwaway. You MAKE it easy.

Wolfe confronting and speaking with Nova’s throwaway account after they insulted him. Here you can see them making up more assumptions and lies to spread around to their friends/mutuals/dramamongers. They seem to enjoy fabricating falsehoods to get angry about. Just strange.

Nova (cont.): "these stupid sheep cant be indigenous they're animals lol" and then turning around and saying ridiculous nonsense like "well OBVIOUSLY marchosias is native coded because ummmm uh ummmmm Here's a piece of removed and non canon dialogue that implies he didn't do something he clearly did" as if that's a gotcha.

no one is under the impression that he's a real person, or that the lambs are irl victims. but when you speak carelessly about actual victims of colonization and genocide (you know, with your insistance on bringing up jewish people, palestine, indigenous people, native peoples, aboriginal peoples and so on) and then say incredibly tone deaf things like "you can't colonize empty land" "dead people cant be native to an area" "it doesnt matter who started the conflict" "genocide victims arent allowed to kill anyone 'freely'" (who said that? genuinely? no one.)

River Boy, his sibling, and anyone else they collaborated with that this applies to worked not only on woolhaven, but the base game and other updates. they are, as you have stated you are aware of, Indigenous people. do you really and truly believe that they wouldn't speak up about the optics of making their protagonist and the rest of their culture/kin into colonizers that get off "scott free" from the narrative as you seem to claim? do you think they would have said nothing about making a supposedly indigenous coded character as you see marchosias "suffer" the indignity that you feel he went through? or have you considered the possibility that you really did just completely misinterpret everything from the start, and have been saying bigoted things that have actually and genuinely harmed people in the cotl community, and that THAT might be why you're dealing with as much backlash as you are?

i really do hope that you think about your actions and take this to heart. you've hurt a lot people with your words and beliefs, and it's not okay. you are entitled to your own opinions and interpretations as it is, but going out of your way to lash out at anyone who dares to disagree with you even if they're in their own spaces and then acting like a victim is a bad look.

Well thanks for confirming that there really is some second server where you all are gossiping about this and making shit up because i have NEVER said the woolhaven lambs aren't indigenous because they're animals lmfao. I've also never listed anything from cut content as a reason as to why the free pack is native coded. Best believe I WILL be adding this to the evidence pile. You dont know me but youve apparently been spending a WHOLE LOT of time talking about me. Weirdo behavior.

I made a "petty" comment about a fictional character. On what seemed to be a jokey post (and im SHOCKED that op wasnt joking). YOU and that other person made a petty comment anyways maybe try reading the articles on terra nullius a little closer because you got it ass backwards. the concept is ACTUALLY that racist colonizers in europe LIED about land being empty in order to excuse colonizing it. after they displaced the people there. 0 for 2 on literacy skills. i truly have nothing more to say after this so feel free to keep screaming in here cuz i'm done logging on now i will also reiterate that the concept of terra nulluis, while used for racism, STILL HAPPENED. acknowledging that it happened and was used historically TO lay claim to "empty land" (that was never empty to begin with) IS WHAT MARCHOSIAS DOES IN CANON. no, he is not responsible for killing the lambs or the genocide. yes, it is canon that he takes note of their graves and clearly dessecrates their temples, comments in said note that he is "looking for somewhere empty and godless" to start his plans, and arrives again. AFTER yngya (who might i add is VERY LITERALLY the mountain itself) has been killed and the lambs have been displaced but not totally killed off yet. that is what people refer to as "settler colonialism" and is still colonialism even if he is not directly responsible for why they left. jesus fucking christ.

Nova then blocks me immediately after sending their final message. The text at the bottom says “This tumblr can’t receive messages.”

I’d also like to add that I watched Nova send their final word vomit to me. They sent it all and then blocked me in less than a minute. Back to back messages all this long? They wrote all this up ahead of time, pretending I was responding. They admit in this unhinged ass rant that they interacted with me first. It is why I sent this account a DM.

[EDIT: 7/24/2026; Nova has deleted the throwaway account, which deletes their messages from the desktop messenger. More attempts to hide what they’ve done.]

Nova later lying about what occurred to make themself out to be a victim. Their favorite pastime. Don't want to know or see it, hmm? No, show your friends the truth. Show them who you really fucking are. Well, too late. I'm doing it for you.

Like. OKAY? WHAT DO I HAVE TO DO WITH ANY OF THIS?
(technically this happened a few days ago but I'm just talking about it now)

Nova demonstrates that barely over two months ago they were still seeking out my posts, and pretending they were being approached and harassed. A few days ago, they say?

The day they blew up my inbox for the last time (May 22nd), I posted this to mock them: https://www.tumblr.com/rainbowolfe/817341553261559808/hey-lastcommentthrowawayblog-since-you-seem?source=share

Again, not having a clue who they were. Happy to know it saw that lol. I did not make any further posts about race, racism, or related topics until May 25th… because I received an ask about it. Completely unprompted. This is not a subject that had ever come up on my blog.
https://www.tumblr.com/rainbowolfe/817621318207979520/no-shit?source=share

As a follow-up, talking about that same anon, I had this to say:
https://www.tumblr.com/rainbowolfe/817623481244139520/racism-is-when-you-think-its-weird-for-a?source=share
And the next day, I added:
https://www.tumblr.com/rainbowolfe/817668969300426752/okay-but-the-denial-of-the-lambs-engaging-in-war?source=share “Coked up white girl” is a joke I was referencing, and was made under the assumption that the person who sent the ask was either Jir or one of her parasocial fans that made a habit of disparaging me in the official server.

But more importantly, this is the “racist discourse hell” Nova was talking about? They have a habit of making things about them when it isn’t. But it seems to me that they’re taking credit for that ask/submission, and that is why they’re claiming we misgendered them.
Yet they claim they haven’t contacted us or even looked at our blogs since blocking us after the aforementioned Bait Post interaction.

show him what happened to the Lamb. Then maybe at the end we could either return him to life (not as a follower) to rebuild what was taken away and he could see that the Lamb was not trying to end the world as he assumed and has mostly purged the Rot that was spreading. Then we could possibly see him as an NPC. Or we grant him his final rest.

Pack, is this real? 03/14/2026 2:25 PM

Marchosias is a survivor of ritualistic abuse and ended itself to avoid being forced into that again. Our wolf is gone. 💔 In my perfect world, she's frolicking in the forest with a bunch of other fallen canines and Free Pack members IN A GODLESS AFTERLIFE.

Also, cults are cults. They are never ethical. The game is portrayed as silly, but the devs did their research and the takeaway isn't supposed to be "oh I could make a GOOD cult". No hate to OP, just saying in general because I've seen it said a lot in this fandom.

Isn't he a hypocrite who also mistreated his followers?

Who also puts you into a morton's fork and blames you for picking either option?

I dunno, this is just from what I've read on both the official subreddit and on TV Tropes.

And the wiki, somewhat

Pack, is this real? 03/14/2026 6:18 PM

1) That's a HC and not able to be proven. Tablet 3 proves that she was attempting to cure them of the Rot, at the very least.

2) The Lamb is a God. Marchosias is a mortal. They chose to do those tests.

Ratchetpower2 03/14/2026 7:50 PM

Abas was kept starving in a cage by Eidon and Marchosias did nothing to stop it, instead preaching at the Lamb about freedom... while one of his own is in a cage right in front of him. Pretty sure that's an immediate show of hypocrisy, starving is not pleasant. Marchosias is no saint. (Also, Marchosias is a he, not a she.) (edited)

According to the wiki it doesn't seem to specify the time

nova 03/15/2026 5:58 AM the wiki is a fan wiki ik the mods here help with it, but the direct line says weeks unless it was added recently. if you remind me in like 2 hours when im home ill grab it regardless tho, id argue you cant just fully starve.someone in thebspan of a few hours at most

So how is marchosias not?? He literally moves onto the land of another and takes it over, refusing to allow those with ancestral connections to the land to engage with the mountain.

That seems like peak colonizer behavior to me.

Pack, is this real? 03/16/2026 12:58 PM
That's not why Marchosias fights the Lamb. It's nothing to do with them being a sheep.

They come in and start killing her Pack IMMEDIATELY.

THE TRANSFEMME KALLAMAR TRUTHER I LOVE MY BIG SQUID WIFE

Nobody is ever talking about these bad boys except me. The Faithless shows several wolves, adults and pups, leaving the mountain that has Yngya's symbol above it. The Stray shows a wolf returning. There were three wolves who were notable enough that the sheep listed them in Flockade (aka their history). We see how the wolves are spoken about and treated by the sheep, as "wretched" and "predators" who deserve to be "CULLED". This fandom has got to stop likening the Free Pack to white Europeans when they are not. 😭 I would bet money on Yngya seeing Ewefall, wanting it because it's Godless, and giving everyone else the boot for either not converting to her religion or for not playing nice when her sheep colonized their home. Tooth and Claw were important historial figures for the wolves. We see them pictured in the follower sacrifice rooms in Ewefall. The Pack member who kills Midas mentions Tooth in a curse: "By the Teeth of the Wolf". A sheep kills Tooth and Claw. He is noted as land...

my argument is more just w the people above who were acting like marchosias was a saint, bc i feel like him being kinda horrible is the point on why his character went this way like i said, i agree w people who are saying they want more of him in general! i like him even tho he sucks as a person bc hes a character and not a real person

Mukkie CULT 03/15/2026 6:17 AM

nova 03/15/2026 6:17 AM i just feel like many people did miss the fact that hes actually kind of horrible + thats why his story has gone the way it has for now and i also generally think making him into a follower wouldnt be a satisfying conclusion to that either as a result, though idk if anyones really arguing for that in this thread anymore iirc op mentioned at one point just wanting more of him in general which i can get behind

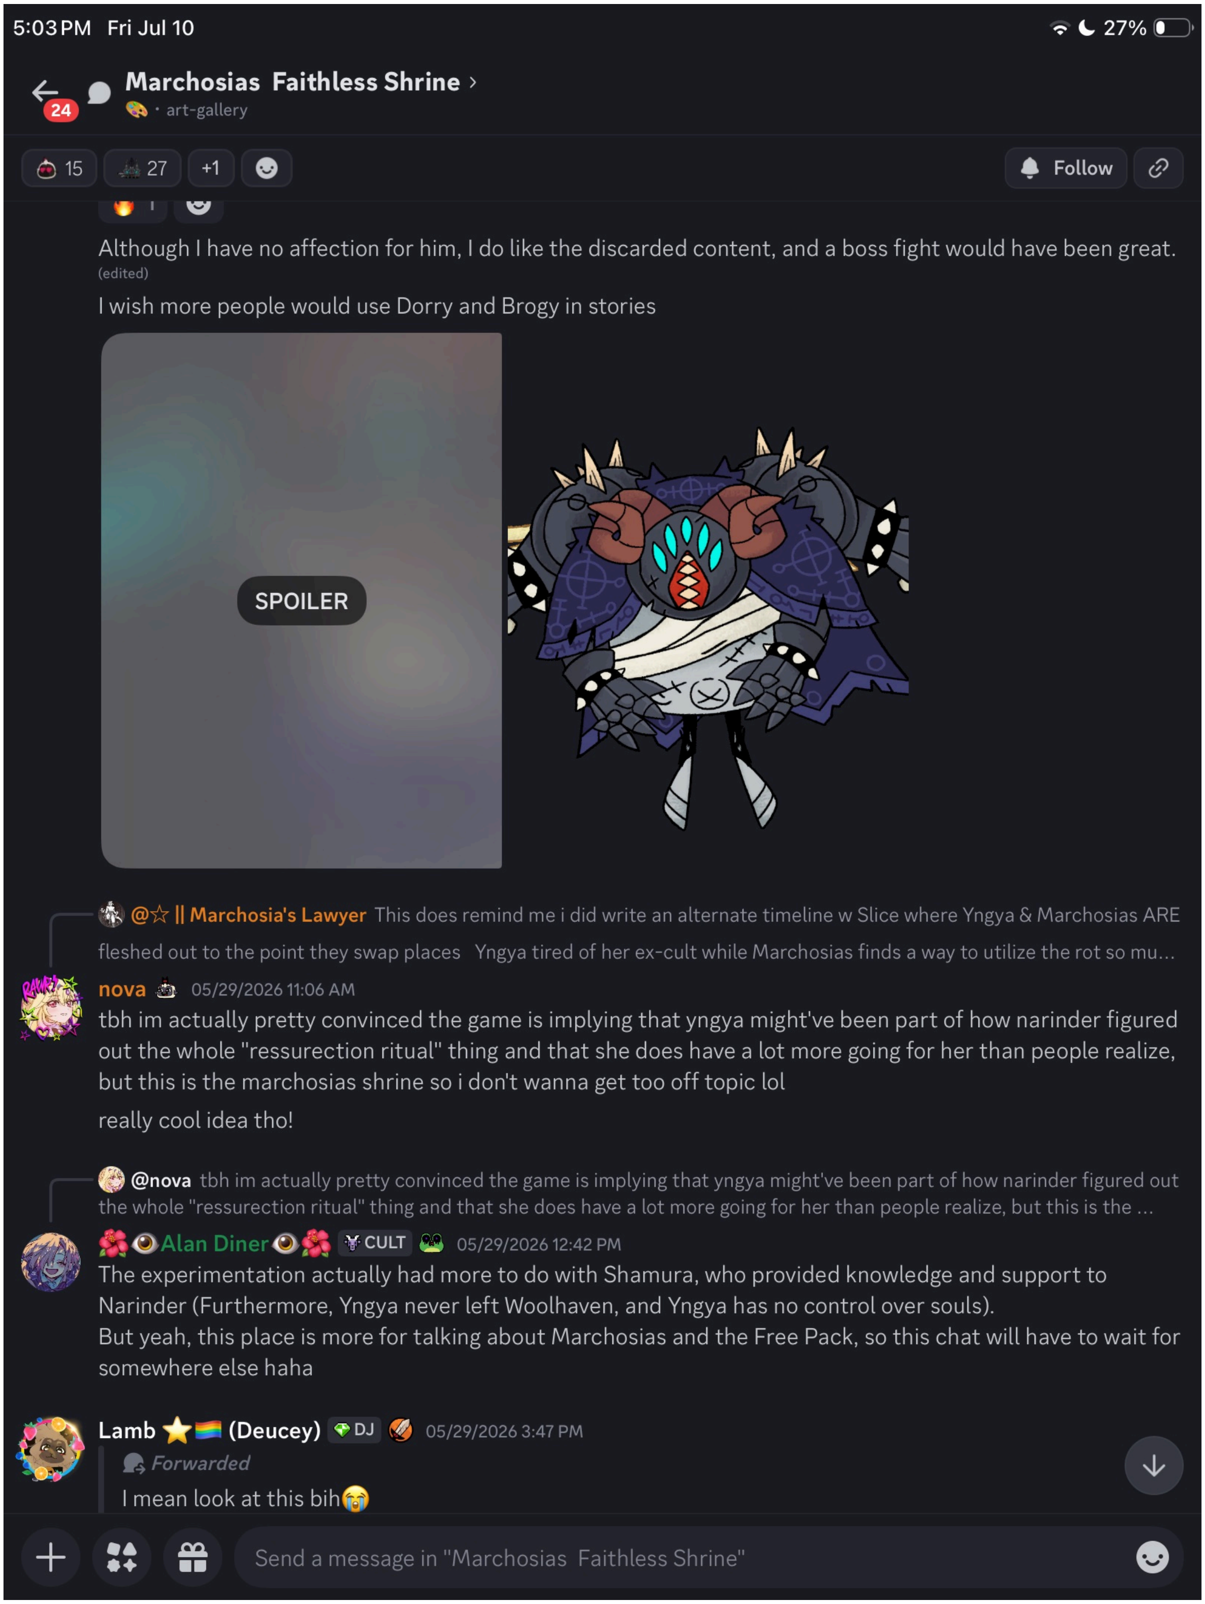
Cute. So rules for thee, not for me.

Don’t let them try to fool you with any sob stories. They do this because they think it’s fun.

This “BS” you’re whining about is most likely from conversations in the Marchosias Shrine I made in the official MM server. This implies they scrolled up to before the times Wolfe and I were banned to read what we said just to bitch about it. Here is them in our abandoned shrine, having a conversation with Hoku, Alan, and Duecey (a mod of the server). Funny, considering we were apparently banned for doing the same.



Although I have no affection for him, I do like the discarded content, and a boss fight would have been great. (edited)

> “#oh and also im p sure they think anyone who theyve harassed is also the same person w 500 alts. somehow. so thats cool”

Nova commented on Wolfe’s problems with Jir despite knowing nothing about them, using us suspecting her instead to accuse us of misgendering the several people harassing us. At the time, we didn’t know it was them and their friends behind it.

I was able to figure out who sent this nonsense simply because Nova has a specific way of speaking. This is either them or a close friend who mirrors the way they speak. I spoke earlier about Alan spreading rumors about Wolfe and I since they’re friends with Jir, who bullied Wolfe for years before xe was banned. Rumors about things they couldn’t have possibly been there for. Also something that never happened. This is more unverifiable information being weaponized against a couple theorists you hate and therefore feel righteous in terrorizing.

An anonymous hate message from [Meet Our Detractors] side by side with Nova’s date relevant complaint. Alan’s (who was addressing Michelle/uas-art) gossip is also pictured. Nova alleges that Wolfe and I both had this explained to us with sources in the MM server. Alan alleges that it was Wolfe only. Which is it? Their lies are not consistent in any way.

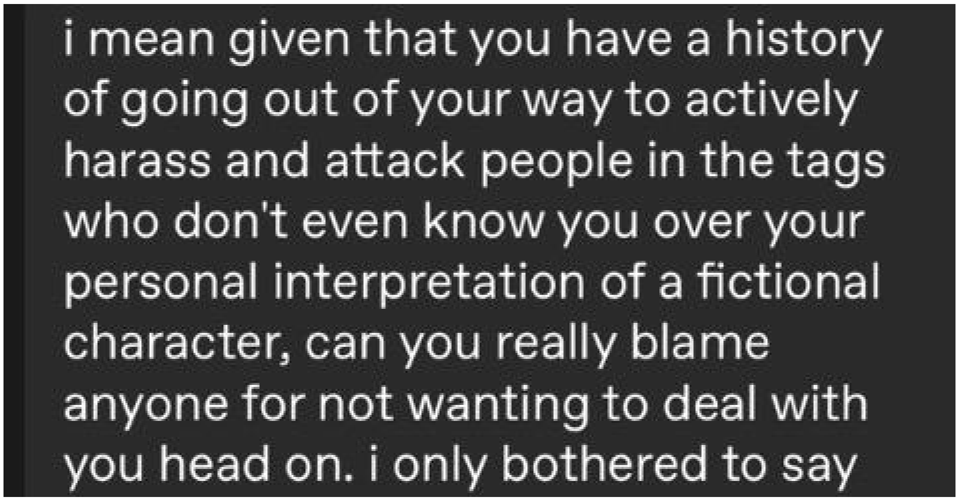
Nova has been claiming that I contacted them first as a part of their defense. I sent a DM to their throwaway in May. Nova sent this ask in March.

So, who contacted who first? Are you harassing so many different people that you forgot you sent in those asks?

Add on to Wolfe's statement, but they told you they were black in March. In May, you dehumanized them via this line. For someone so enlightened, you sure can't tell what a microaggression is.



i mean given that you have a history of going out of your way to actively harass and attack people in the tags who don't even know you over your personal interpretation of a fictional character, can you really blame anyone for not wanting to deal with you head on. i only bothered to say

Again with this, likening me to an incel for disliking Yngya. Acting as if their headcanons about Marchosias are objective fact. I also never claimed that Marchosias was transfem. Canon Marchosias is a cis man, undoubtedly. Didn’t claim that she personally was a victim of cultural genocide either nor a hero to the people. As a character, Marchosias is an anti-hero though. Those are separate things.

Here’s a bonus, me deciding what I’d call Marchosias prior to knowing her canon pronouns or anything about her character. August 19th 2025.

Them complaining about the transfem Marchosias HC I don’t have. They made this up entirely just to bitch about me and claim I’m a misogynist for disliking Yngya’s character. They claim that I have insulted every female character in the game. This just isn’t true. The people who actually know me can attest to the fact that I’m very much a feminist and care deeply about not perpetrating misogyny and calling it out when I notice it. Also, um, I experience misogyny nearly daily. I’m female and am acknowledged as a cis woman by passerbys who don’t know me.

Oh, and they’re also misgendering me here.

Marchosias isn’t canonically racist. I don’t HC her as transfem either. I have critiqued Yngya’s character because she is two misogynistic tropes passed off as a main character, and I hate that. I hate that she can’t be more than a mother and a perfect victim.

I’ve also mentioned that Koka killed her children to feed them to the Rot (which is canon), but I never said “wow I love this writing choice” and have also criticized that. Do they think Yngya is the only woman in-game? I'll list the other women/girls for reference: Heket, Chemach, Forneus, Stelle, Scylla, Valac, Furfur, Monch, Rakshasa's Wife, Gorgo, Abas, Temi, Aza, Keru, Jalala, Rinor, Fortuna, Nirah.

Also, you're misusing the word woke. I'll leave that for Wolfe to explain.

"Woke" was a term coined by African-Americans as shorthand to refer to being aware of the racism, prejudice, and discrimination that surrounds them. It was a warning to stay safe. It made a big resurgence in response to acts of police brutality and the growing number of African Americans being executed in the streets by those police.

Of course, as all AAVE eventually is, the term was stolen and rebranded. It now means anything and everything under the sun. It practically means nothing now, honestly. It's become a joke, used only in a mocking or sarcastic fashion. This is a side effect of the normalization of bigotry.

Genrefluid and Nova are bad faith actors weaponizing "serious topics"—such as racism and transphobia—and people's discomfort with them to make their behavior seem justified. It's something that frustrates me the most about fandom. They (and many other white people) know that they can throw out false accusations of racism as a way to silence others. Particularly other white people. Which is a billion times more harmful to marginalized people than speaking disparagingly about fictional characters.

No one will question it out of fear of appearing racist themselves. Which means the accusers never have to explain why it's racist, and they get away with it. All the while patting themselves on the back for "combatting racism", when no one involved actually truly knows if what they called out was racist.

Nine times out of ten, it isn't. It certainly wasn't in this case.

“Racist with the way they talk about the sheep.” Read that outloud. Read it to someone outside of fandom spaces. Realize how absolutely ridiculous this accusation is. At the very least, acknowledge just how vague and empty this accusation is. There was no follow-up. No elaboration. Sheep is not a race, for one, no matter how much Genrefluid insists it is.

For two, I can play this game too, if you really want. 🤨 Let me show you guys how it’s done:

> Nova said that a black person has a “shit idiot brain fungus” and “lacks knowledge and literacy”. Isn’t that such a weird thing to say to someone from an oppressed group that HISTORICALLY has had their access to education systemically limited??? Michelle lied about a black person starting an argument with her. Doesn’t she think she’s contributing to white supremacy by stereotyping a black guy as angry and aggressive? Not very #woke of you. I saw Sasha said it doesn’t trust the opinions of a black person, and will be blocking them on sight. Curate your feed and all, buuuuuuuut isn’t it weird to specifically exclude black people from interacting with you??
> /sarcasm /this is an example of how you all talk to us and about Woolhaven

I could go on and on. See how easy it is to reframe someone’s actions as being discriminatory? I know they didn’t say these things to me because I’m black(...probably). Which means it is not racist. And I know they know damn well that Lori does not mock the sheep because they are sheep. So no, it wasn’t “racist in the way it spoke about sheep” no matter how you want to slice it.

This submission also misgenders Lori, by the way. OP went onto its account, took screenshots of whatever the fuck, and somehow magically overlooked the multiple instances of it stating what pronouns it uses?

Misusing terms like “neo nazi” and “racist” diminishes their meanings.

Frivolously deeming things as bigotry spreads misinformation and lowers people’s opinions on real accusations.

Using racism accusations to control people’s behavior only contributes to making feel like people shouldn’t talk openly about racism.

All of these things cause tangible harm by facilitating the normalization of bigotry.

[No Takebacks lol]

Not long after I called it out by name, they posted this. It’s unbelievable, the gall of this asshole. Is this audacity or stupidity? What the full fuck are you talking about? ya know. i've been thinking about it a bit lately and while i kinda dont want to go on a huge essay about it, i really do feel like...idk.

cotl really has been a very big inspiration to me and i have met a lot of people who ARE important to me thru it. and yeah, the fandom is like. really fucking bad also. genuinely one of the worst fandoms to ever do it. but how many people in this fandom are "actually bad" and how much of this is just the fact that by the nature of the game itself, it tends to attract both a very neurodiverse as well as a very pre-traumatized community. how much of this "drama" and these arguments and incidents are intentional malice, and how much of them are the result of mismatched communication styles. how many people want to cause genuine harm, and how many people simply just havent healed from their own wounds and are lashing out bc they cant fathom doing anything else. and maybe most relevantly...how much of that excuses any of the harm that is caused regardless?

ig ultimately this post doesnt actually mean much of anything lmfao but. i think about how i really am not exaggerating in the slightest when i say that i have been obsessed w this game since launch (august 12th 2022 zzz) nor am i doing so when i say that i really and truly Have not engaged w the fandom directly for the most part that entire time as well. not out of embarassment or shame, or even fear. but because whenever i did spend too much time in this fandom space in the past, i could feel it starting to wear me down and ruin any goodwill i had towards any of it.

and then i think about how...i dont wanna sound harsh or judgemental (and this really isnt about anyone in specific either. i do have a lot of mutuals in the fandom, both in some of the larger circles as well as my fellow #Nobodies lol) but. how genuinely bitter and angry and hurt some of the people i see in this fandom feeling towards it/others, even if it is more than fair to feel that way. how i can list well over 10 people im close with who refuse to engage w the fandom in public bc theyve all been i'm really not sure How it got this bad. i know its been pretty entitled and full of bullshit from the start at least, bc i remember dealing with this kinda shit as far back as september 2022 which is why i stuck to myself in the first place. but its a shame. like...idk!

its a shame that the fandom is genuinely so awful that it feels inescapable no matter what part of it you engage with. it sucks that it feels impossible to seperate the "source" material from the fandom/fanon to the point where its difficult to tell where one begins and the other ends. its awful that i cant help but feel that even the devs are, well...kind of fed up with it sometimes, even if they do engage directly more than i think most of us would prefer lmao. but even so.....its not surprising in the slightest that so many people have missed the major narrative of what the cycle of abuse/trauma does to the world/a community and have instead chosen to just Keep Hurting One Another instead of like. reflecting on their own beliefs/biases/mistakes/etc and moving on with their lives i dunno. more than anything, i kind of just wish it was safer to try and engage with others in the community and share my ideas more freely instead of having to worry about random illiterate fandomite number 3737228283392020102 0248228 deciding to make someone elses life a living hell because they decided that they're a victim, and that entitles them to hurt others for any reason lmfao. oh well. many such cases.

They're not "pseudo-pretentious", they're just fucking pretentious. They're insufferable to a cartoonish degree. "Oh woe is me, I'm not allowed to publicly post racist rhetoric and misinformation without someone pointing it out! This community is so unsafe!"

[First Defense]

Only recently had we discovered the ringleader behind all of this, so I'm offering these posts to disprove Nova's narrative that it is being victimized by us holding it accountable. It is making us out to be the ones who approached first, continued to harass, and who started this. That is false.

First, I'll share the tags I found by chance while checking Fio's page to ensure I got a name correct. They expected us to find this which never would have happened if I hadn't been doublechecking something.

As you can see, it is pretending to be the victim once again. They've spent months spinning the narrative that Wolfe and I are unstable and cruel individuals who harass and stalk people. Their friends believe this without a second thought. Nova believed they'd get away with this behavior, but they won't. They're afraid now that they know WE know.

-Disproving the Narrative P1

I have compiled most of my public posts on this to show the reality. We were being targeted by people hiding behind anonymity for months. Up until the point we were forced to hunt these people down and bring their actions into light. There is only one “side” of this debacle that has been silenced, banned under false pretenses, bullied, harassed, sent hateful messages, etc. and it is Wolfe and I. And whoever else dared to disagree with this group.

First Woolhaven post I ever made or reblogged. I spoke fondly of members of the Woolhaven flock. (JANUARY 2026):

Literally a very good analysis on Marchosias as a whole. But yeah UNFORTUNATELY if you start talking about the stuff Marcy did, certain ppl will jump down your throat and deflect by saying shit like "while ACTUALLY the genocided group were members of a cult so its deserved actually <3" (which is literal imperialist rhetoric btw) and claim you dont get nuance.

Idk im not the one pissing and crying when someone points of my favs crimes-

Yes you are, dumbass. All you do is cry about the sheep being “misunderstood”. It’s the crux of why you began campaigning against us. Neither of us have ever said that the sheep deserved to be the victims of a genocide. How exactly would you be harassed if I’ve blocked you, Nova has blocked both Wolfe and I, and Wolfe is either blocked by you or vice versa? Tell me how that could possibly occur. It couldn’t. You think we’d make alt accounts to come read your stupid takes? I thought blocking you three months ago made it clear that I wasn’t interested in the things you say.

[Wolf Note: Also, that’s not even imperialist rhetoric. Nor is it something we’ve ever said. Or anyone besides him. How interesting that WD said this and then later in the month those same sentiments showed up in Cold-Mother-Yngya's inbox. You guys are offended by your own ideas you come up with in your own head, and instead of reflecting on why you think those things, you decide it's somehow someone else's fault you came up with that.]

No you haven’t because we haven’t attacked anyone. Furthermore, why would we be attacking people in the discord server we know was run by corrupt moderators who already hated us? The nature of our bans (which occurred separately) were never disclosed to either of us, so either Nova is making more shit up or whichever mod this clique is shacked up with is breaking their own rules. Said “evil shit”, by the way:

This is an objective fact about the world of Cult of the Lamb said in a silly fashion. No one should be offended by this. If they are, it’s no fault of Wolfe’s.

I’ve already proven that Nova is lying about being harassed. I’ll say it again: I’ve never spoken to them. They sent Wolfe a hateful anonymous message as early as March of this year. The throwaway account incident was in May. They reached out first. They instigated several times. This is what they do and you all eat it up. I assume because they weaponize their trauma and shitty mom and shitty life. Open your eyes and look at who this person you’re protecting is.

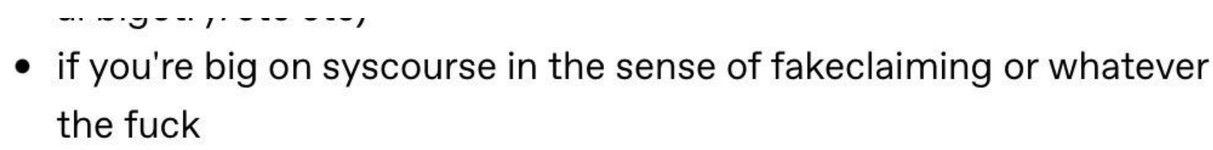
More of them baselessly accusing us of racism on the basis that we dislike the Woolhaven flock and like Marchosias. No telling what else they've been saying that we didn't find. The absolute audacity to feign innocence once you get called out for several months' worth of harassment is laughable.

You're fucking pathetic, Nova. Just worthless. People like you are why I exist as an alter. You make me ill. I can't wait for this to finally be over. I never want to think about or see you again.

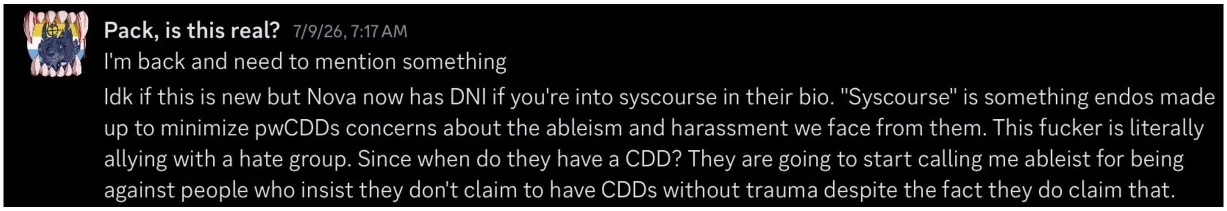
Speaking of people with complex dissociative disorders, why the fuck are you speaking for us?



- if you're big on syscourse in the sense of fakeclaiming or whatever the fuck

[Transcription: if you're big on sys-course in the sense of fake-claiming or whatever the fuck]

You have never spoken about having a CDD. If you're so educated, then you must know what syscourse means and how disrespectful that is for people who genuinely have this disability. I spoke to Wolfe about this because it always bothers me to see.



Pack, is this real? 7/9/26, 7:17 AM

I'm back and need to mention something

Idk if this is new but Nova now has DNI if you're into syscourse in their bio. "Syscourse" is something endos made up to minimize pwCDDs concerns about the ableism and harassment we face from them. This fucker is literally allying with a hate group. Since when do they have a CDD? They are going to start calling me ableist for being against people who insist they don't claim to have CDDs without trauma despite the fact they do claim that.

Another system compiled the history of the "non disordered plurality" cretins who made it their life's work to terrorize and retraumatize people with CDDs, who they considered lesser for not being "plural" naturally. For anyone who needs to see it:

I can’t prove if you’re in support of “endogenics” or not, but I wouldn’t be surprised. In either case, stay one million feet away from my people. You’re not safe for systems to be around. At least we can agree on one thing though, fakeclaiming is vile. Some people who claim to be endogenic “systems” do have CDDs and are misinformed or in denial. Some people are just misinformed. It’s why we should focus on remedying misinformation so people can get the help they actually need to heal.

This is a small thing in the grand scheme of this doc, but it matters to me so I wanted to add it.

@thewisaaaaad Yngya says as a follower that she had the haven built at the mountain, which implies the sheep also weren't the first ones there either. Again, you can't colonize an area with no inhabitants if the definition you're applying is stealing someone's home, forcing them out, and making it your own. Like, is the argument that murdering the Free Pack entirely is justified due to the land formerly belonging to the sheep? I fear that's just Zionism101.

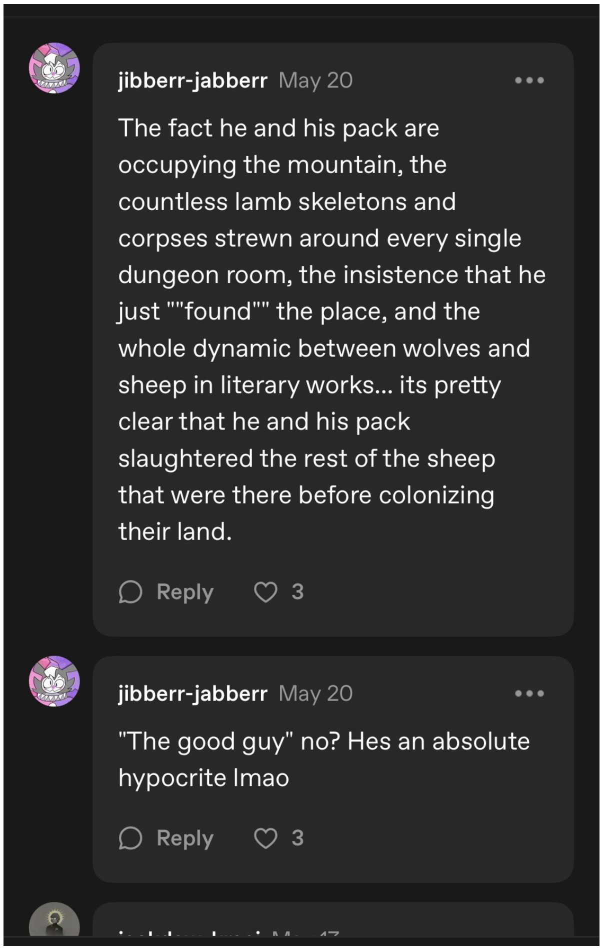
These were ones that I could find. If there are others, I will add them if they are found or offered. If anyone who created these posts would like to vocalize their experience (positive or negative), I will add that too.

After digging through months of posts and messages and comment threads, something really blatant became clear. The ones being harassed this entire time were Marchosias fans who had opinions that strayed from the “approved” take on him—ie. Being a racist colonialist settler and an evil hypocrite. The following is an assortment of comments responding to an OP who spoke positively about Marchosias. Many of these come from the above linked posts.



jibberr-jabberr May 20

The fact he and his pack are occupying the mountain, the countless lamb skeletons and corpses strewn around every single dungeon room, the insistence that he just ""found"" the place, and the whole dynamic between wolves and sheep in literary works... its pretty clear that he and his pack slaughtered the rest of the sheep that were there before colonizing their land.

lowkey no hes not because this guy is using a mountain that's essentially a massive graveyard of genocide victims and claiming it as his own . the fucking wooden effigies over the lamb's god?? he's honestly just a cult leader repackaged. he's acting like he's better but he has no respect for the lambs as a whole and he treats his pack just the same as the bishops treated their followers. the only thing putting me in a position to have to choose between my followers starving or freezing is him 😭 they woulda been fine if he wasn't constantly trying to kill them

Nova regularly laments about how they wish they could post their theories or whatever, but they're just so afraid of the harassment. Genrefluid too repeatedly talked about how if they shared a "certain opinion" they'd be attacked, and how he wouldn't dare to put it directly in the tags. This level of projection is astounding.

Marchosias is that one character who has good intentions but goes about it in the most hypocritical and horrible way possible. Like no, Marchosias isn't a good guy, hes a asshole like everyone else on the island (and is honestly a parallel to Woolhaven/Yngya as a whole, victims of the bishops but does messed up things BECAUSE of what the bishops did)

Its really unfortunate we cannot say much or a couple of people will jump down your throat and bend over backwards

Your “fear” of us has never stopped you from speaking your minds before. Ignoring the fact we are not in contact and haven’t been for months. I believe I spoke to you a single time? I did block you early on because I thought you were annoying and potentially one to start trouble. Seems like I was right.

[Fandom Hostility]

How many confessions did they send in saying that anyone who had an opinion on the lambs that didn't align with theirs was stupid and racist?
Do you not consider those attacks? Why? Because you did it anonymously? Because you did it indirectly?

People spreading rumors and gatekeeping what people can and can't say or think. That being said, if the sheep are a race then so are the wolves. How is it appropriate for you to call the wolves, as a race, violent? How about nobody compares fictional characters to unrelated groups of real life indigenous people? This is not progressive to say. You're being condescending and strong-arming people into staying silent for fear of saying something wrong. Over characters that are not indicative of real life individuals.

I feel like people are overlooking the pretty clear connection between Woolhaven's story and trauma amongst indigenous peoples across the world-but specifically the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders of Australia. This is an Australian game. The team leaves a land acknowledgment at the end credits for a reason. They know what they're doing with the themes in their game. So I ask that everyone kindly make note of this in their theories and lore surrounding the Woolhaven cast.
...ESPECIALLY Marchosias.
I've seen some really crazy stuff being tossed around in regards to Marchosias' role in the story and, however you feel, Please Be Aware Of the Implications your Theories May Have.
With all of that, happy theorizing. Please be kind, and I wish the mod/s of this blog and all readers a lovely day!

[W/N: A land acknowledgement is a custom common to Australia (and Canada) to stand as a rejection of terra nullius. Land acknowledgements done in this fashion are generally criticized as empty gestures by indigenous leaders, as they aren't doing anything to facilitate actually returning the land to them. Regardless, its presence in the credits is wholly irrelevant to the content of the game. It's talking about the real people who completed work for the game while on land that has still not been returned to the Indigenous community it belongs to, not the status of the fictional sheep.]
[W/N 2: Additionally, if there actually is a colonialism allegory written into this game, it does not inherently mean the sheep represent indigenous people.]

Respectfully I think comparing the Aboriginal people and the Torres Strait Islanders with Marchosias and the free pack is very uncomfortable? Taking Real Life cultural groups of people who have experienced genocide, displacement and cultural erasure and casually comparing them to violent wolves who are currently inhabiting the abandoned home of lambs (a race of people who were canonically displaced, genocided, and culturally erased in game) is not the move.

Everyone is entitled to their own interpretation of the game and I do love seeing marchosias and the free pack be analyzed and interpreted so deeply! And I don't want anyone to feel bad! But I think we could do with being a little more careful when making comparisons like this? Especially if you aren't indigenous yourself? Please?

[W/N: There goes that stupid fucking phrase again. "Displaced and culturally erased". It's like y'all are so out of your element that all you can do is keep quoting the same section of the same article, in a way that demonstrates you didn't understand it. Also using the word "genocided" while preaching about being mindful of how you speak about serious topics lmfao.]

[W/N 2: We may not be indigenous people ourselves, but we did actually get the opinion of a few that we knew. This is also a prime example of vaguely gesturing and calling something problematic without explaining or knowing why, because they don't like it. If being "violent" makes it offensive to compare the Free Pack to Indigenous groups, then it's also offensive to compare the Lambs to Indigenous groups. They're warmongers planning to commit omnicide. They violated the bodily autonomy of an undead woman and desecrated her corpse.]

Honestly with the way certain people treat the ghost lambs (calling them "crazy", trying to say they killed Yngya when we dont know if that's not the case either, saying they are worse then their literal genociders) it kinda makes me want to root for the rot (not really ofc) because u ppl love to treat the ghost lambs as if they were the most evilest creatures in-game when the bishops are right there (regardless or not they were "redeemed") when their irrationally was caused by the effects of genocide. We are living, breathing human beings who you and your clique have been targeting for months. Nobody has ever fucking said that they genuinely believe the sheep are worse than the Bishops. [Player Interpretation]

And it doesn’t stop there. This is a pretty small fandom. If you want it to stop being toxic and cliquish and hostile, you have to be the change you want to see lol.

It wasn’t just Nova complaining about how unpleasant the fandom is because they’re so intelligent, and how anyone who doesn’t agree with them is intellectually inferior. A lot of these people expressed that sentiment on their blogs. Now, fandoms have their problems with media literacy, sure… but they’re slandering and bullying people for their interpretations about things that are undefined, unknown, or otherwise left open ended. (Examples of this will be shown in later sections.)

This includes interpretations of the notorious Research Tablet II, by the way. The ‘official’ answer to whether or not the ‘Estors were lied to is literally(figuratively lol) “maybe”. “Maybe” and “Might” aren’t just other ways of saying “yes”. It means the answer is uncertain or otherwise undecided. I.E. up to interpretation.

Being unable to fathom any but one interpretation does not give the impression of strong media analysis skills. It’s a double whammy to be unable to even recognize that something is intentionally being left up to interpretation by the author.

okay i was gonna give some feedback in this channel and i saw this thread at the top and i got too mad to actually make a suggestion lol. L take. it would defeat the point of marcho's character as a whole (edited)
I'm curious about OP's arguments for this take though

Basilisk OP 03/20/2026 1:04 PM
I've made...so many arguments. Lining them out in the most simple terms due to sheer exhaustion over having to constantly defend my, and many others perspective on my own, leads to:

A. The storyline just sucks. His story is incredibly weak and essentially has no genuine meaning and/or impact on both the game and the player, and not even receiving the reward of having him as a new follower makes the story feel even more pointless and annoying, and borderline insulting. Just another box to check on the list of things to get over with to finish the game rather than a meaningful part of the story. It felt like the storyline as a whole was weak and bad in comparison to every other aspect of the game.

B. It diverges from the established way the game functions: kill boss = follower. Makes no sense and just generally sucks.

C. It doesn't make sense lore wise why this one random dude should be capable of escaping the lamb when nobody else has been able to. Whether or not he is a god (which has been debated), he should not be able to escape the lamb through dying when the lamb is literally the god of death. It is just ridiculous and makes zero sense. He can believe whatever he'd like, but those beliefs mean nothing. He is essentially weaker from the bishops from my pov, so it just makes me roll my eyes that we can't take him as a follower because 'his beliefs.'

There's probably more, but I think those are the basic ideas.
And atp, I feel like I should just shut the thread down because I've had multiple people come to me in dms saying that they agree, and like my ideas, but feel they cannot contribute publicly due to the way this entire thread has shaken out. It has been genuinely disheartening not only for me, but to others on the server who feel like they can't even speak up and reply due to the incredibly negative responses so many people have given.
I understand what the purpose of the storyline was and the intentions behind it. I just feel as though it did not have the impact and meaning necessary to overrule the disappointment of not receiving what is an expected reward within the game. I also believe that, if they wanted players to truly consider their actions and what they mean, they went about it in the wrong way and it didn't function as intended.

the kits one was done poorly and yngya has little to no character in the postgame some storylines were treated badly but marchosias' is not one of them.

Basilisk OP 03/24/2026 1:45 PM

The storyline with the bishops, the storyline with narinder, the overarching narrative behind the various NPCs like chemach and clauneck. Even yngya was better done, she just has 'no character' due to her storyline being completed and her power being reduced.

His story fell incredibly flat for me when compared with other aspects of the game. Again, you can disagree, but that doesn't mean I am wrong.

LF27_ | Hagar's biggest hater MRTU 03/24/2026 1:46 PM

it's because the other indoctrinable individuals did not have the ideal of going against the gods and were to prideful to sacrifice their own lives to escape the lamb. literally in one of the lore tablets marchosias says better death than indoctrination, if you take the bishops by example, each one suffers in their way after indoctrination, shamura dissents straight up. so this, i don't get it.

Basilisk mentioned that she had been receiving hateful messages because of the opinions she shared in her thread. But she received even more messages of support expressing the very same idea Nova and their circle claim affects them: that they’re too afraid to share their opinions for fear of being attacked. And it is the primary reason why she wanted to keep the thread up, despite Jir insisting she lock it instead of addressing the harassment..

She’s a moderator. All any of the mods have to do is say something about it. Instead they’re among the many people who spread the narrative about Marchosias fans “overreacting” about him not being a Follower and other takes they don’t personally approve of. All Basilisk has done in this thread is state her stance and not back down from it no matter how rude people were to her.

I've had nearly 30 people come to me in dms suggesting that interactions such as this have caused them incredible discomfort and has essentially disheartened them from interacting not only in this thread, but in this server overall. This behavior is, quite frankly, shameful and disgusting. It isn't digging a deeper grave to not agree, and the fact you suggest that it is reflects the unfortunate way you, and others, have essentially othered a large part of the community.

The way people have piled on within the thread, and the way they have essentially suggested that I am stupid and wrong, have created a situation where a great many people feel disheartened and unable to express opinions within this server.

I've considered it, but I'm genuinely not sure about closing it. I've seriously had over 50 people from this server come into my dms saying that they feel just as discouraged and disheartened by all of this, and that it has seriously tainted their opinions on both the server and the game that I've come under such fire for what seems to be a relatively popular opinion. Where they genuinely feel they can't even speak up in this server or they will face bullying and harassment. I've also had people outright calling me names and insulting me both here and in dms over this, and I just feel conflicted.

I want the opinion to be known, and seen, I just don't want to continuously have to defend the same points to people.

example, the decision just doesn't really feel like a decision. Don't kill him, get nothing. Kill him off, get the things you need to complete the game. I'd prefer if there were some genuine consequences like ratau becomes a follower after you beat everyone at knucklebones or something if you don't kill him, but if you do you have to go through a whole difficult trial to get him back. Something that causes genuine questioning and consequences

I feel like if you're going to implement a choice system, have the choices be meaningful and impactful rather than just..a quick little thing to get done and brush over.

nova 03/09/2026 4:46 AM

so basically youre saying "in my opinion i think this entire character is meaningless if i dont personally get what i want out of it (at the cost of the actual meaning of the narrative here) because it didnt impact Me personally the way it clearly did most other players?" or am i misunderstanding something here. because unfortunately thats not really an argument still or an issue with the story itself so much as it is that you are prioritizing your own personal satisfaction on a meta level over again...the actual story being told which to be clear, it isnt wrong to feel how you do if so. but its not something thats going to be addressed in a meaningful way with that approach

K_H SRCW 03/09/2026 5:05 AM

Would being able to get the Wolf follower form be an acceptable alternative?

Mukkie CULT 03/09/2026 5:16 AM as a gamer, getting bosses as follower is always a nice reward, but as someone who enjoys the story and lore this game offers, seeing marchosias' end was a catharsis. we are always expected to be able to get that reward, to be able to just get all the heretics, and the way he remain defiant until the end just left an impact in me, despite the anger i felt over his insults and him taking all my stuff. marchosias is a very interesting and complex character, and i hope that we dont get to indocrinate him, but in future updates, we get to see some lore behind him, what happened to him under t bishops, you know?

to make it ratau. I don't want a look a like, I want the actual character to exist within my cult.

@nova so basically youre saying "in my opinion i think this entire character is meaningless if i dont personally get what i want out of it (at the cost of the actual meaning of the narrative here) because it didnt impact Me ...

Basilisk 🖤 OP 03/09/2026 5:43 AM
I'm saying the character is meaningless if the game afterwards is almost, if not, exactly the same as the game prior. It provided no change, no depth, and no real impact on the game, the story/lore of the world, or the way I feel about my actions as a cult leader. In my opinion, if you want to force players into making a decision that is supposed to reflect who they are, you need to actually make genuine consequences and impact for it to do so effectively. Otherwise, you get situations like this, where people (not just me) feel like they got a half-baked story with very little genuine impact on the game or your feeling around it/yourself as the player.

They clearly want the player to do some thinking about themselves and their decisions, but the way it was set up makes those decisions entirely pointless, which makes thinking about them and what they mean regarding who you are pointless.

I haven't personally gotten what I want out of plenty of other characters in this game alone, and it hasn't bothered me as much for a variety of reasons. This one bugs me because of the emphasis they attempt to put on the choices you make, only for that to fall flat in actual practice.

Again, using ratau as an example, there is literally not a single genuine reason not to kill him. Not a single one. If they wanted the players to feel some sense of moral struggle during that encounter, they should have given a reason to not hand him over to the fox.

I want consequences and impact, and this situation seemed like it should have some only to not.

Basilisk 🖤 OP 03/09/2026 5:57 AM
Even hagar if we need a recent example. I didn't get what I personally would have wanted out of that storyline, but I can still see the value in it and enjoy it for what it is.

Nova then spun a narrative about how they were attacked, and how they were being harassed, over a fictional wolf. They went into Basilisk's thread. They went to my account to send anonymous asks. They approached me in someone else's comment section.

The only thing Nova is a victim of here is their own lack of self control.

Every accusation pitted against us spawned from either a strawman argument or just an outright lie about us/the content of the game. This circle is quick to support each other's lies without hesitation because they're too immature to accept that they were ever wrong. Like here:

-The Originators

I'll start with uas-art (on tumblr, UAs-art on Reddit). Her pronouns are she/her and her name is Michelle. In late February, she posted this now private post.

https://www.tumblr.com/uas-art/808849613117325312/spoilers-btw-but-i-was-checking-the-wiki-to-see-if?source=share

I pinged Wolfe to show them that I had correctly guessed the fandom's latest talking point. They responded to my comment in turn. This was not done in an attempt to attack or demean Michelle. From what I remember, neither of us spoke to her on the post. I will edit this if she unprivates the post and proves otherwise. I can see how my original comment could be perceived as disrespectful despite my lack of malice. I am sorry if I hurt her feelings. That being said, the resulting lies are unacceptable and I won't ignore them.

A user known as strawberrycheesecakehare (they/he) began insulting Wolfe and I on said post. They would later reach out and apologize to Michelle. Strawberry is misrepresenting our argument here, but that's to be expected. He has a long history of doing things like this. Here is that post, which is still public and has a comment of mine on it (this will be relevant later).

https://www.tumblr.com/uas-art/809645553515397120/hey-sorry-for-getting-into-an-argument-in-your?source=share

I'm not going to clog this doc with the things they've done, but you can see them under the tags "strawberrycheesecakehare" and "cherryblossomventi" (old name) on tumblr. Yes, he has his own set of tags. Imagine my surprise when I got a post from one of his victims on my FYP. I thought they were just some dickhead, but no. It goes deeper. Some of the people harassing us or are neutral to it are mutuals with him.

Here are some relevant comments between Michelle, Strawberry, and Alan. First will be Michelle and Strawberry's exchange.

 THERE, and the free pack attacks first and does now allow the Lamb to freely visit their ancestors homes (and also all the lamb ghosts are still haunting that place) bc apparently 'hey so this is the lambs original home they have a right to be here' is fucking Zionism bc now the free pack lives there. To add, is Michelle friends with Strawberry? The serial-abuser and predator? I have to wonder what made her so comfortable just believing what he said without verifying it, and then spreading it as the truth?
I never compared the game to "real life tragedy" in this conversation. The statements Strawberry made used Zionist rhetoric to support his own belief that the Lamb's actions were correct and justified. I already gave the Zionism Crash Course earlier in the doc, but just to have it right next to his words:

> -Zionists justified their claim to Palestine by emphasizing historical ties to it[13][c]
> -Advocates of Zionism have viewed it as a national liberation movement for the repatriation of an indigenous people [...] to the homeland of their ancestors.
> -Opponents of Zionism often characterize it as a supremacist,[32][33] colonialist,[34] or racist ideology,[35] or as a settler colonialist movement.[36]

Hmmmmm. Emphasizing the reclamation of one's ancestral homeland as an excuse to kill people indiscriminately. How weirdly familiar, where have I heard that one before? What a weird sentiment for alleged anti-Zionist and pro-Palestine people to hold.

Next will be Alan's two cents. Alan's (any pronouns) username on tumblr is alanarts16. On Reddit, their username is u/Training-Squirrel-42. On the COTL wiki, their username is AlancinARts. They are the only moderator of said wiki, chosen by Jir herself. Alan seems to have come into the cotl fandom in 2025. Wolfe and I had minor interactions with them. Recently, they blocked us before making two posts in an attempt to dismiss our theories.

It is important to note that Alan makes these remarks about both of us without knowing either of us personally or being there for the instances they are speaking about. We were not wildly attacking people in the MM server. It's not why we were banned either. I myself was banned after I left. I asked Trooper for a reason and he never responded.

 alanarts16 Feb 26 You really dodged a bullet there; I'm telling you, the same person had a similar conversation on the official Discord server. [W/N: this where the fucked up game of telephone started, by the way. Alan is referencing us saying that Marchosias didn't make Mestor mute. Michelle thinks they're talking about Strawberry's claims about Zionism and genocide. The rumor that resulted from this miscommunication has already been shown earlier in the document.]

Before I continue speaking about Alan, here is some of Michelle perpetrating the Cardinal Sin of Hypocrisy. On Reddit, she compares Marchosias to Ted Patrick, a man who kidnapped, assaulted, and tortured multiple people. If speaking on the themes of genocide in regards to the ideologies used in real life to perpetrate them is morally bankrupt, why is it moral for you to compare a fictional character to a real life abuser and rapist?

Idk if it's intentional, but the head of the deprogramming movement in the 70's was a man named Ted Patrick, aka "Black Lightning"

And what force does Marchosias use to strip the faith away from the Bishops' followers?

Lightning!

And to say he was controversial is almost an understatement, seeing as he'd kidnap folks off the street, hold them in isolation, keep them deprived of food and water, and threaten them to "deprogram" the cult mentality out of them.

Michelle claims here to have blocked us both before she went to bed. I have shown her previous claims that disprove this. Another thing is I am actually the one who blocked her. My comment on Strawberry's apology post is unavailable due to it being from the account I blocked her on, but on my main account I can still see it if I go to her page and click the view button. I took a video to prove this.

I saw someone trying to use the game script (first picture) as an argument that Marchosias didn't do what Mestor did, using this part of the description. But it seems they skipped the part where it says that Festor is only translating what his brother tells him. In addition, the description is from the old dialogue it had before they changed it.

Additionally, Michelle had no problem interacting with me on Reddit. This screenshot was taken on 7/11/2026, for reference. So, what? She had an argument with me so severe that she had to block me, and she completely disapproves of my alleged behavior… but when her friends aren't looking, it's all sunshine and daisies?

I genuinely don't understand Michelle's part in this lol. What motivation do you have to lie about what happened? Surely it cannot be just for brownie points?

This isn't an excuse for her or anyone else, but I do know that misremembering situations can happen due to your brain filling in the gaps between the reality of what actually happened vs what people are telling you happened. Or gaslighting. Or a million other things. Or Michelle could be lying to avoid being the next target of her mutuals because they sure love to harass, ostracize, and excommunicate people for wrongthink.

-Alan and the Mod Team

Here is a short video of my exchanges with Alan on Discord for an example of how I spoke to them privately. I (alongside Wolfe) have been permanently banned from the Massive Monster server, so I can't find any other times I spoke to them.

[charged shard 2]

Here is Alan dismissing a theory of mine via the localization doc. As you can see, they cherry pick which parts are valid or not based on what supports their or their friends' theories.

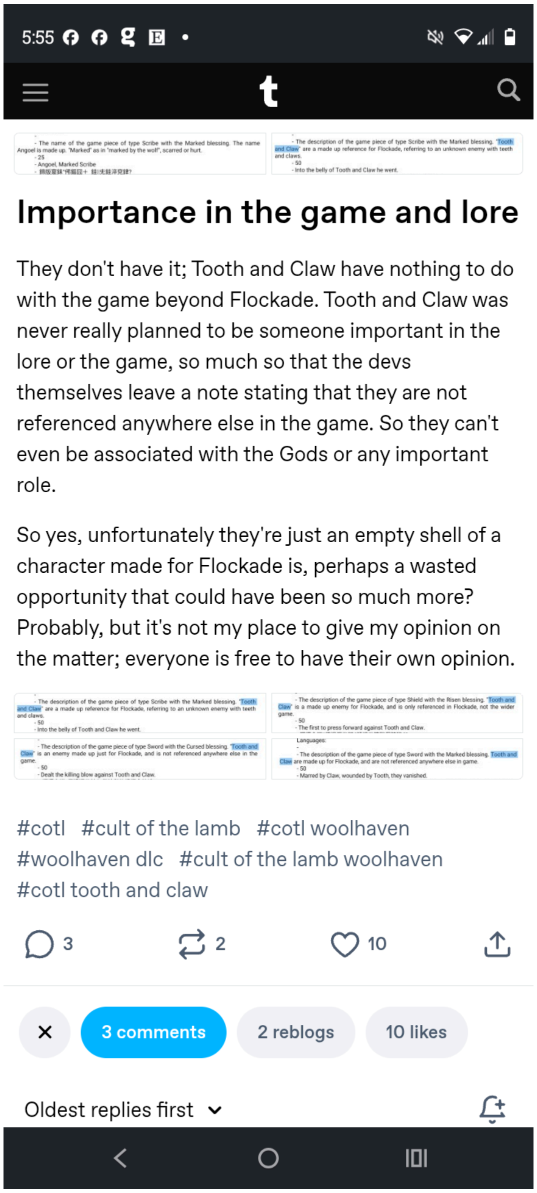
Here's a brief explanation of this character who is mentioned in Flockade, clarifying a few things about them.

Appearance

The few details about this mysterious enemy are scarce, but enough to know that they were a wolf and that their name is very redundant. His name, "Tooth and Claw," is not because they were a two-headed creature or anything like that, but because they possessed teeth and claws. (Yes, it's a huge irony and redundancy)



- The name of the game piece of type Scribe with the Marked blessing. The name Angoel is made up. "Marked" as in "marked by the wolf", scarred or hurt.
- 25
- Angoel, Marked Scribe
- [illegible]

- The description of the game piece of type Scribe with the Marked blessing. "Tooth and Claw" are a made up reference for Flockade, referring to an unknown enemy with teeth and claws.
- 50
- Into the belly of Tooth and Claw he went.

Importance in the game and lore

They don't have it; Tooth and Claw have nothing to do with the game beyond Flockade. Tooth and Claw was never really planned to be someone important in the lore or the game, so much so that the devs themselves leave a note stating that they are not referenced anywhere else in the game. So they can't even be associated with the Gods or any important role.

So yes, unfortunately they're just an empty shell of a character made for Flockade is, perhaps a wasted opportunity that could have been so much more? Probably, but it's not my place to give my opinion on the matter; everyone is free to have their own opinion.

- The description of the game piece of type Scribe with the Marked blessing. "Tooth and Claw" are a made up reference for Flockade, referring to an unknown enemy with teeth and claws.
- 50
- Into the belly of Tooth and Claw he went.

- The description of the game piece of type Shield with the Risen blessing. "Tooth and Claw" is a made up enemy for Flockade, and is only referenced in Flockade, not the wider game.
- 50
- The first to press forward against Tooth and Claw.

- The description of the game piece of type Sword with the Cursed blessing. "Tooth and Claw" is an enemy made up just for Flockade, and is not referenced anywhere else in the game.
- 50
- Dealt the killing blow against Tooth and Claw.

Languages:
- The description of the game piece of type Sword with the Marked blessing. Tooth and Claw are made up for Flockade, and are not referenced anywhere else in game.
- 50
- Marred by Claw, wounded by Tooth, they vanished.

#cotl #cult of the lamb #cotl woolhaven #woolhaven dlc #cult of the lamb woolhaven #cotl tooth and claw

My theory can be read here:
https://www.tumblr.com/kallamar-my-beloved/818123231086116865/tooth-and-claw-guardians-of-the?source=share

This theory is being “debunked” using half-truths and false claims about the devs’ intentions lol. This method of debunking is very common in this fandom. There’s actually nothing confirming Tooth and Claw to be wolves, or why they were named the way they are. You can make some educated guesses, but that’s not the same as a confirmation.

I don’t even know what they’re attempting to debunk about my post. Every summary for dialogue in the localization doc is about what the character said lmao? So if that means that nothing characters say can be trusted or used as evidence, then there’s a whole lot of shit Alan has spread that is false, since they have no problem citing other dialogue summaries.

Funny how that works out.

Here are the screenshots between Wolfe and Alan's private exchanges on Discord.

Hey Alan,

I was just reaching out while I still can to say that... I think it's very unfair of you to be

The next exchange I had with them was because of them talking about me on Michelle’s post about a situation they are not apart of. I knew the only reason Alan would make it seem like I have some sort of history of attacking people was from the mods lying about the “Incident”.	They are friends with Jir, who as I’ve stated prior has chosen them to be the only other moderator of the official COTL wiki. They were also allowed to share aspects of the localization files that other server members received warnings for.

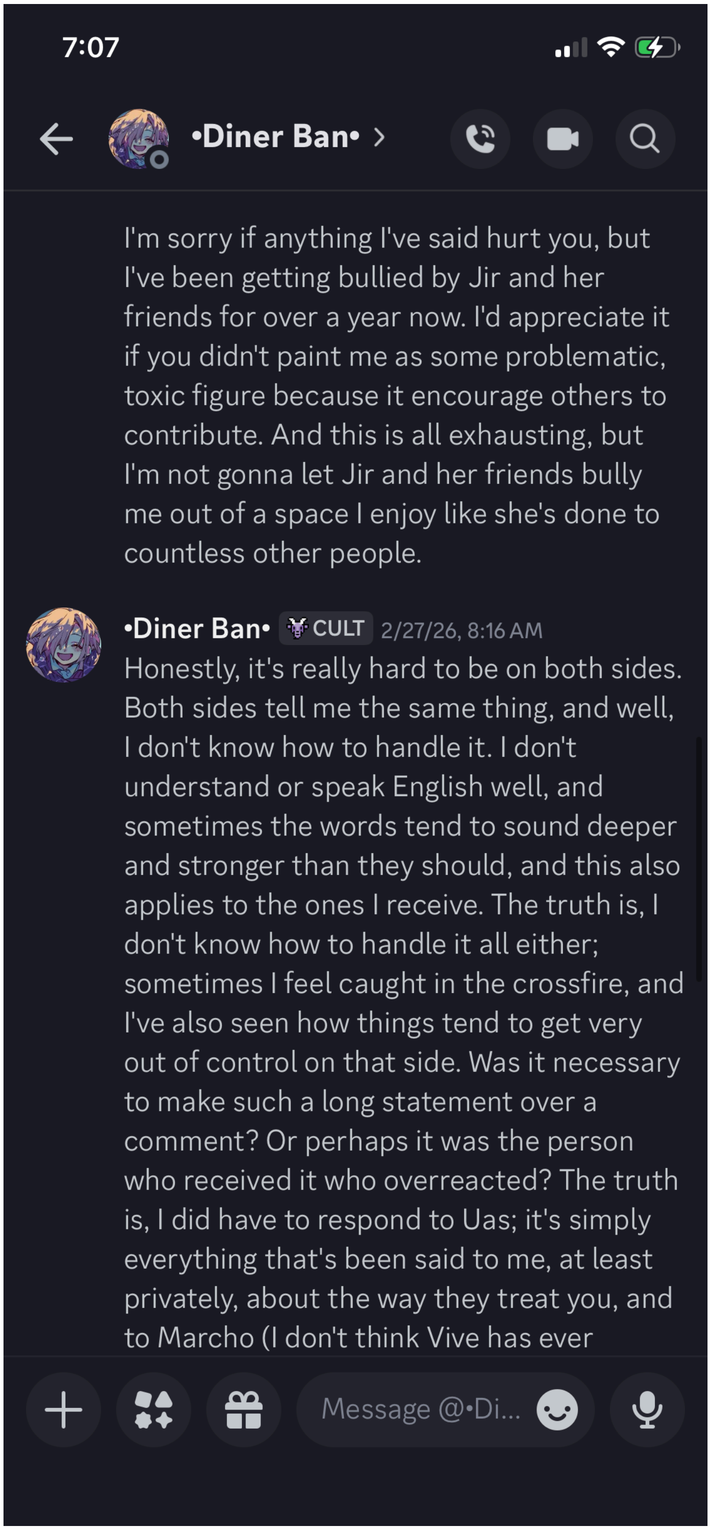
Hey Alan,

I was just reaching out while I still can to say that... I think it's very unfair of you to be spreading gossip about me just because the mod team doesn't like me. What "reputation"? There was exactly one incident, where they accused me of "talking about serious real life issues" when I shared the definition of servitude while talking about Warracka's Right Fist.

If you dislike my theories, that's fine. If you disagree with my take on the allegories for serious topics present in Woolhaven, that's fine too. But suggesting I'm a bad person over that is a bit extreme.
To say that I've been obsessive and harassing people over Marchosias is wrong because it's not true. Why is it fine for everyone to disagree with me or criticize what I say, but when I do it back it's an attack? The mods watch people insult and mock me outright, but when I use a negative emoji, I'm crossing a line?



I'm sorry if anything I've said hurt you, but I've been getting bullied by Jir and her friends for over a year now. I'd appreciate it if you didn't paint me as some problematic, toxic figure because it encourage others to contribute. And this is all exhausting, but I'm not gonna let Jir and her friends bully me out of a space I enjoy like she's done to countless other people.

•Diner Ban• CULT 2/27/26, 8:16 AM

Honestly, it's really hard to be on both sides. Both sides tell me the same thing, and well, I don't know how to handle it. I don't understand or speak English well, and sometimes the words tend to sound deeper and stronger than they should, and this also applies to the ones I receive. The truth is, I don't know how to handle it all either; sometimes I feel caught in the crossfire, and I've also seen how things tend to get very out of control on that side. Was it necessary to make such a long statement over a comment? Or perhaps it was the person who received it who overreacted? The truth is, I did have to respond to Uas; it's simply everything that's been said to me, at least privately, about the way they treat you, and to Marcho (I don't think Vive has ever

The truth is, I did have to respond to Uas; it's simply everything that's been said to me, at least privately, about the way they treat you, and to Marcho (I don't think Vive has ever mentioned anything about it). Besides, at least the people I know don't exactly have a better opinion. I really remember the little I saw of that post and how it got out of hand. Was it really necessary to stick to the game's topic? Maybe it would have been better to just let it go? Well, I'm not going to tell anyone what to do; that sounds pretty bad. And at least I can tell you that, as far as "reputation" goes, at least among the Discord moderators, it's not very good. I don't know the exact reason why, although I might be somewhat vague since they mention almost the same thing you're mentioning now. I really don't know if I should share half of this; maybe it was too private. In any case, I wish you well. Be careful with anything "really strong" you might say; you're usually under close scrutiny.

I think that's all I could say about it; a large part of it I think I shouldn't have said, but I

Yeah, it must suck being caught in the middle :/ i'm sorry they dragged you into this. I wasn't aware they were that focused on me.

I didn't show up to that comment thread to argue, and nothing I initially said was mean. It's not that I'm calling anyone a bigot for sympathizing with the lambs, I just noticed that the lambs actions and attitudes towards the wolves and Hagar align with certain ideologies. And the game is about a genocide at its core. Isn't that a real issue affecting people?

Thanks for responding to me though. And thanks for letting me know.

This was the “Incident”, just so we’re clear. I didn’t initiate a conversation about American slavery. They tried to correct me when I correctly used the word. I was timed out for insulting them in response to them insulting me. Jir and Deucey are the ones who brought up race. This abject refusal to admitting they were wrong about the definition of a word was very familiar behavior, and it is why I was under the impression it was one of them or their mutuals blowing up my inbox and sending in asks about the meaning of terra nullius.

servitude noun

ser·vi·tude ˈsər-və-ˌtüd -ˌtyüd

Synonyms of servitude ›

1 : a condition in which one lacks liberty especially to determine one's course of action or way of life

2 : a right by which something (such as a piece of land) owned by one person is subject to a specified use or enjoyment by another

Did you know?

Servitude is slavery or anything resembling it. The entire black population of colonial America lived in permanent servitude. And millions of the whites who populated this country arrived in "indentured servitude", obliged to pay off the cost of their journey with several years of labor. Servitude comes in many forms, of course: in the bad old days of the British navy, it was said that the difference between going to sea and going to jail was that you were less likely to drown in jail.

Right. I'm the dumbass for saying that servitude means slavery. Jir clearly knows more than Every Dictionary Ever. A few weeks later, I was timed out again for using the term "master-servant relationship" when quoting Jir. Modkiq and Benny proceeded to gaslight me about previous warnings that never happened.

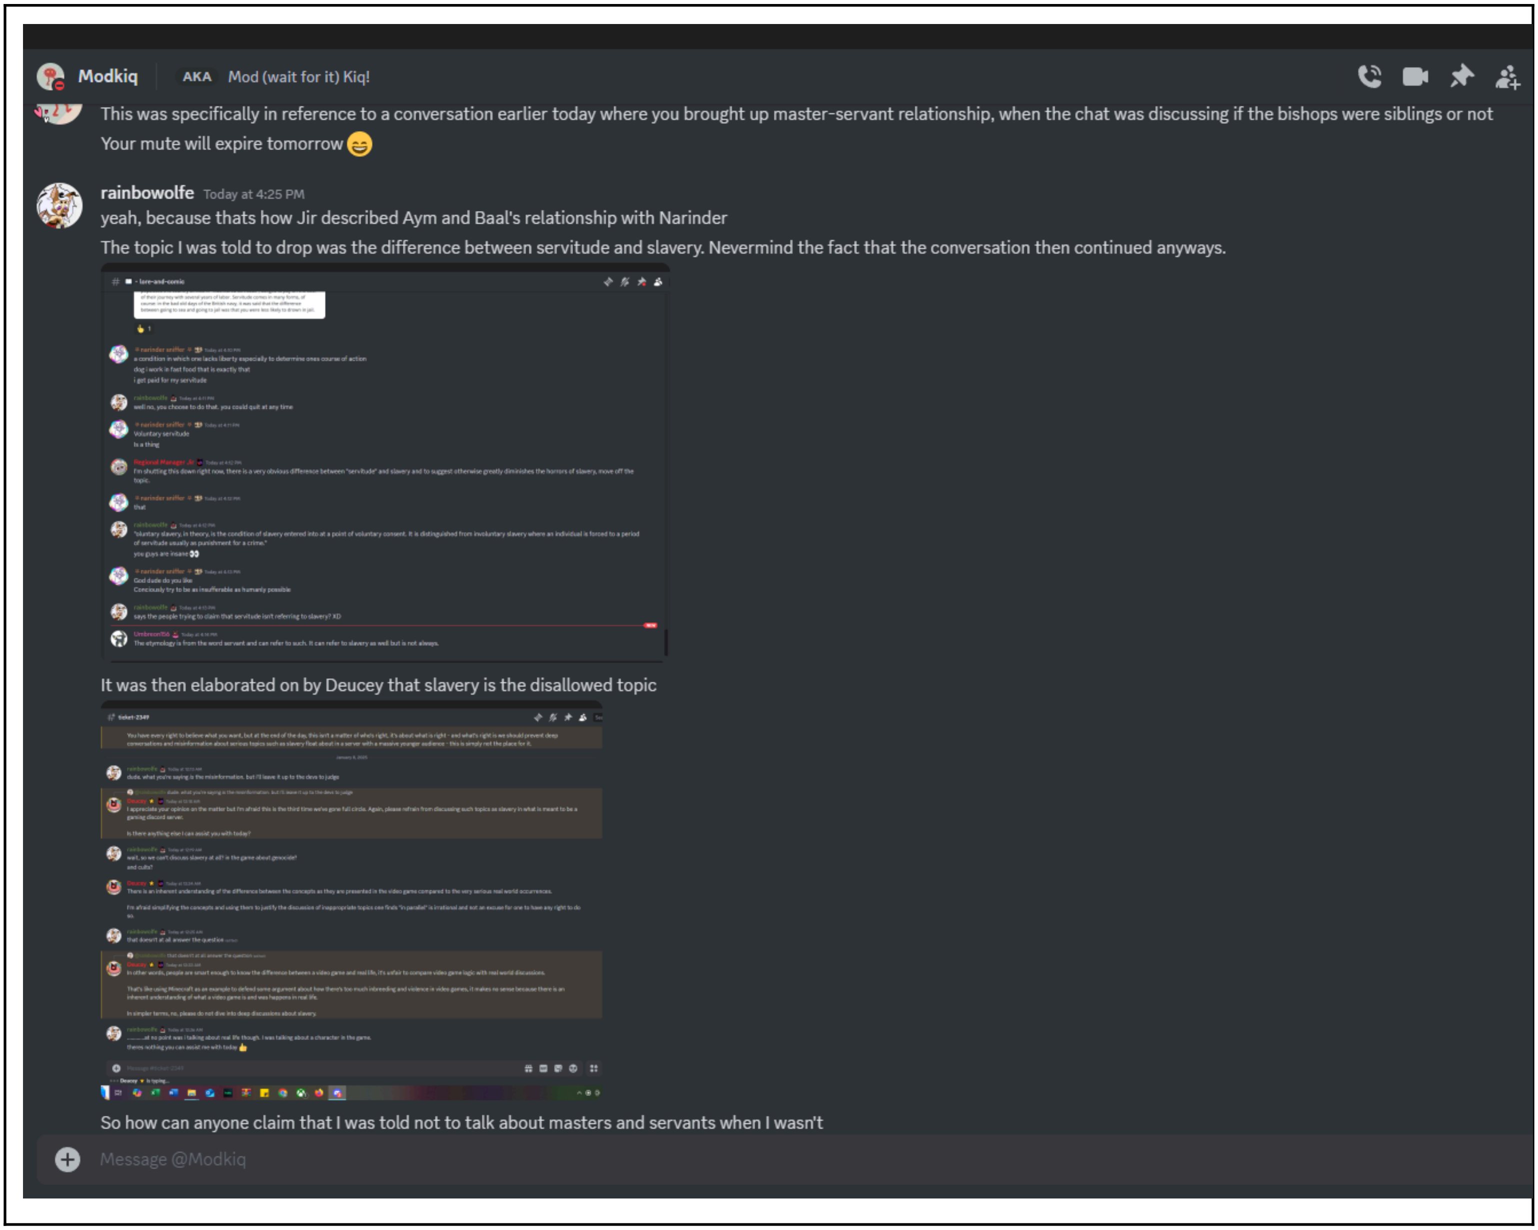
Having read up on your server history and talked to the involved moderators, the reason you were muted is because you have continued to bring up slavery/servitude/master-servant adjacent topics despite being warned not to. Moving forward, we ask that you avoid these topics as a whole, or using this theme as a crutch in arguments, as you have been explicitly told by the mod team to stop. If you are ever in doubt if some of your messages are OK or not to send, you may ask a moderator or make a ticket before posting to make sure it is OK.
You may continue to enjoy the server after your mute has expired 😄

rainbowolfe Today at 4:15 PM
i literally didnt though?
but on top of that, it doesn't seem fair to randomly add more to what isn't allowed to be spoken about without even specifying what changed? I was told not to talk about slavery or any implied enslavement, and I haven't.

Modkiq is typing...



This was specifically in reference to a conversation earlier today where you brought up master-servant relationship, when the chat was discussing if the bishops were siblings or not

Your mute will expire tomorrow 😄

rainbowolfe Today at 4:25 PM

yeah, because thats how Jir described Aym and Baal's relationship with Narinder

The topic I was told to drop was the difference between servitude and slavery. Nevermind the fact that the conversation then continued anyways.

of their journey with several years of labor. Servitude comes in many forms, of course. In the bad old days of the British navy, it was said that the difference between going to sea and going to jail was that you were less likely to drown in jail.

narinder sniffer
a condition in which one lacks liberty especially to determine ones course of action dog i work in fast food that is exactly that i get paid for my servitude

rainbowolfe
well no, you choose to do that. you could quit at any time

narinder sniffer
Voluntary servitude
Is a thing

Regional Manager Jir
I'm shutting this down right now, there is a very obvious difference between "servitude" and slavery and to suggest otherwise greatly diminishes the horrors of slavery, move off the topic.

narinder sniffer

rainbowolfe
"oluntary slavery, in theory, is the condition of slavery entered into at a point of voluntary consent. It is distinguished from involuntary slavery where an individual is forced to a period of servitude usually as punishment for a crime."
you guys are insane 👀

narinder sniffer
God dude do you like Conciously try to be as insufferable as humanly possible

rainbowolfe
says the people trying to claim that servitude isn't referring to slavery? XD

Umbreon156
The etymology is from the word servant and can refer to such. It can refer to slavery as well but is not always.

It was then elaborated on by Deucey that slavery is the disallowed topic

You have every right to believe what you want, but at the end of the day, this isn't a matter of who's right, it's about what is right - and what's right is we should prevent deep conversations and misinformation about serious topics such as slavery float about in a server with a massive younger audience - this is simply not the place for it.

rainbowolfe
dude. what you're saying is the misinformation. but I'll leave it up to the devs to judge

Deucey
I appreciate your opinion on the matter but I'm afraid this is the third time we've gone full circle. Again, please refrain from discussing such topics as slavery in what is meant to be a gaming discord server.

Is there anything else I can assist you with today?

rainbowolfe
wait, so we can't discuss slavery at all? in the game about genocide?
and cults?

Deucey
There is an inherent understanding of the difference between the concepts as they are presented in the video game compared to the very serious real world occurrences.

I'm afraid simplifying the concepts and using them to justify the discussion of inappropriate topics one finds "in parallel" is irrational and not an excuse for one to have any right to do so.

rainbowolfe
that doesn't at all answer the question

Deucey
In other words, people are smart enough to know the difference between a video game and real life, it's unfair to compare video game logic with real world discussions.

That's like using Minecraft as an example to defend some argument about how there's too much inbreeding and violence in video games, it makes no sense because there is an inherent understanding of what a video game is and was happens in real life.

In simpler terms, no, please do not dive into deep discussions about slavery.

rainbowolfe
.........at no point was I talking about real life though. I was talking about a character in the game.
theres nothing you can assist me with today 👍

So how can anyone claim that I was told not to talk about masters and servants when I wasn't rainbowolfe Yesterday at 11:54 PM

soooo you're just not gonna address this...? very cool

January 28, 2025

Modkiq Today at 1:24 AM
I don't think there's anything to address. At this point I have read both the old conversations plus the full ticket you made. I have given you the reason why you got muted, and reviewed the actions of the moderators. Your mute will expire later today.

Furthermore, your attitude to me not responding instantly at 1:30am should tell you all you need to know.

We ask that you please do better moving forward (edited)

rainbowolfe Today at 1:34 AM
I would think the rules not being communicated should be addressed, Muted for 24 hours with no warning for a rule that was made up on the spot. My last message to you was at 4:25. In what world is 9 hours later expecting an immediate response?
frankly i'm still not even understanding what the rule is.
i can't say the word master?

Modkiq Today at 1:35 AM
This is the second time you have been muted for the same reason, it has been explained to you in detail, you have gotten warnings previously. (edited)

rainbowolfe Today at 1:36 AM
it hasn't been explained at all because at no point was I not told I couldn't say the words "master servant relationship"

Modkiq Today at 1:37 AM
You have been told to lay off the topic as per your previous warning earlier this month 😆

rainbowolfe Today at 1:37 AM no i wasn't the topic is in the screenshots
the topic was the difference between servitude and slavery

Modkiq Today at 1:38 AM
If there's any confusion in the future, you can contact the mod team before posting further comments and we will let you know if it is okay to send or not

rainbowolfe Today at 1:38 AM theres confusion in the present you're saying I should send a message to the mod team everytime I want to say something?

Modkiq knows he's full of shit. That's why he won't explain why I, specifically, cannot describe the twin's relationship with Narinder as master and servants, but Jir can? Nor how it relates to discussions of IRL slavery, which was the banned topic under the "no politics" rule.

The mod team having a problem with me on a personal level is not a conspiracy. Alan confirmed the extent to which they had a problem with me. They were actively looking for an excuse to have me removed. It's not my fault Jir makes herself look silly, but they sure do act like it is. Our bans from the server mean nothing. They won't even give us the reason why.

It may seem "petty" but they're being pettier while also being in a position of authority. This wasn't an official channel. This was someone's personal art thread that was apparently filled with so much rule-breaking content, we had to be banned without warning or explanation. Weird that they'd want to keep it around if it was full of such harmful stuff. Was there something stopping them from making their own thread to chat in or?

-Further Rumors

The onus is on Genrefluid to prove we actually said any of these things. They almost completely made this up on their own based on vague information from a third party, who didn't like that I off-handedly mentioned that the Disciples come off as racist lol. But this became something parroted across this circle. "Those Marcho fans that think he's a saint, and the sheep are evil and slander them to defend their fav."

Also, saying that everyone in the world deserves to die over anything is quite the take. Prime example of him spouting that mass murder is a punishment that can be deserved. As a bonus, he even starts using Zionist rhetoric to defend the lambs.

I’ve said multiple times that the sheep’s history of valorizing war does not mean they should be purged from the world. I’ve said that genocide is not a “punishment”. It’s always unethical. Here is where I say just that.

Do I need to bring the Zionism Bullet Points back up, or.

I didn't realize people were still so pro-colonialism in this year of 2026.

Sasha buddying up with Nova after posting this is incredibly funny. The knocking is coming from inside the house, douchebag.

I really wish that the cunts who spend their time harassing, spreading rumors and insulting other people on the internet for Woke Points tm or whatever would put half of that energy towards actual activism and helping other people around them in their Real Life.

But let's be real, those people don't do it because they, god forbid, wanna see a better world. They do it because they want to be the boot, they want an excuse to be the bully and feel superior to whoever they're claiming to be morally corrupt. These people are pathetic and they are vile.

Like your friends and mutuals, Sasha? You portray yourself as mature, but you aren’t. You, alongside Lamb-Kind, and whoever else, are believing and spreading rumors about US. You know neither of us. Your friends have been the ones targeting us for five months. You and the others never cared to investigate anything yourselves because if you had, you wouldn’t be gossiping about us. You’d know it was bullshit.

Nova (dynablade/renegadevictorious) and/or Genrefluid (woolhaven-defender) have been stalking us, particularly Nova. These DMs they claim both Wolfe and I blew up? The only DMs that could’ve been had was via a throwaway blog that was created specifically to argue with Wolfe. I never spoke to this account.

If you must know, I do donate to charities and I foster whenever possible, despite the fact that I am disabled and live on fixed income. Shall we pass a hat around and morally grandstand about our contributions to this world? Whatever. I can tell you someone who truly brings no value to this world. The ringleader behind this: Nova.

You and the rest of the clique do not seem to take issue with them obsessing over us. Is this acceptable behavior? Transphobia, racism, xenophobia, and misogyny is a-okay if One Of The Good Ones perpetuates it? How can you type up this bullshit without a second thought?

You and your pitiful friends can go fuck yourselves. Stay away from Wolfe. Stay away from me. We have never wanted anything to do with any of you. You are not victims.

What happened to curating your online experience? You are participating in a harassment campaign that is hidden behind the guise of “concerned community members”. How many times has this happened? How many people have you and/or your friends and mutuals “exocommunicated” from this fandom? I still can’t tell if this is over rumors or over us theorizing in a way certain people didn’t like. In either case, grow up and focus on your “Real Life” rather than ours.

Can we please get more nuanced about this and start trying and saying anything meaningful about these characters

Myself, I find the conflict between Woolhaven Sheep/Old Faith/Free Pack really compelling storywise but the fandom’s general attitude makes me want to not touch it in the slightest.

Also, [in my opinion], it’s really weird how the morality of Yngya’s and Marchosias’ actions has been discussed to death all the while the Bishops (you know. The cult leaders. The guys who did the genocide) are completely untouched on. Really, most of the stuff I always see about the Bishops is either the family drama or their disability angst.

[to be honest] I partially blame the game and the developers who also conveniently sweep the fact of it under the rug after the relics of old faith but who [gives a fuck]

“Oh why don’t people complain about the Bishops instead-“ Because nobody has ever spent months bullying me and my friends over the Bishops, you fucking idiot. Because the Bishops are old news. Because I care about the lore of this game and was sick of people spreading fanon information as fact. Said fanon information has resulted in what I can only refer to as “Marchosias Antis” which wouldn’t be a problem if they didn’t attack people who do enjoy the character.

You vague-posted about what I can only assume were Wolfe’s vents, meaning that you knew about the harassment we were facing. You made the claim that Wolfe was “rage-baiting teenagers”. Nova is not a teenager. They are over 25 years old. Genrefluid is 25 years old. I would hope that anyone who has sent hate mail in their stead is not a minor. Defending oneself from a pussy hiding behinding anonymity isn’t “rage-baiting”. Why are you speaking on something you know nothing about under the pretense that we want “Woke Points” for our opinions? What we want is to be left alone. You’d know that if you read anything we said.

Curiously, tumblr recommended their blog to me. I ended up blocking them. Potential informant? Tay, find a better group of friends. These motherfuckers are weird, and you deserve better.

EDIT: Judging by Nova's most recent "woe is me" post, I assume they had this one stalking me. Yes, let's send out the nineteen year old TEENAGER to do our dirty work. Ya'll are some bottom of the barrel ass people.

Sasha believing the rumors, vague posting about Wolfe and I, plus Fio implying there's "something happening". I'll go out on a limb here and assume that once Nova realized we had found out they were the ringleader, they ran to their enablers and cried to them about the big, bad Marchosias fans.

Found a new reason to block people and it's this whole weird ass defending of Marchosias as this totally 100% good guy and painting the dead sheep as horrible, irredeemable villains. I don't trust any of you cunts with nuance.

It's shocking how much nuance, conceptually, evades these people. Like do they even know what it means because all they ever do is demonstrate a severe lack of nuance whether they're talking about us or Woolhaven lol.

In Fio's bio, but they don't seem to mean this? Hypocrisy is a cardinal sin to this group (/ij) so good luck.

- Don't send me personal discourse. If you have a problem with another user that I wouldn't know personally, it should be dealt with and resolved privately. In no way am I ever going to be in a position where I can give you a solution for this. Remember, I am just a random guy, on the web!

I’ve also had them blocked way before this ever occurred. Here is the proof of that, alongside proof that I blocked Genrefluid (on his side blog, Woolhaven Defender) a long time ago. I’ve never spoken to Fio. I don’t know them. They don’t know me. I’d wager they don’t know Wolfe either. These people are the exact kind that Lamb-Mine writes so many fandom critical posts about, ironically enough. I don’t know how they can’t see this.

So it's okay to freely call Hagar canonically racist but if Wolfe and I say the same about the Woolhaven flock, it's a problem? More hypocrisy. Make up your minds.

can anyone say something crazy to me im bored. i even turned the anon asks on Sasha's reaction to Fio being falsely accused of something they didn't do. Notice the pattern of these people engaging in the very behavior they condemn, criticize, or are negatively impacted by? Beyond our situation, this proves that the COTL fandom has a huge problem of people taking gossip at face value and spreading it around regardless of the damage it causes.

Theres many more under threads that have been deleted. The cotl fandom is extremely parasocial and cliquish and this is the result of it . One simple mistake having a butterfly effect , and all because my friend tried to protect someone .

[Fandom at Large]

I could go through the literal hundred examples across the web of people acting weird towards Marchosias fans who speak of him positively...

https://www.tumblr.com/lucyfelle/810711532947308544/i-feel-like-marchosias-dying-isnt-just-the-best?source=share https://www.tumblr.com/big-splooper/821172723672858624/my-whole-opiniontakeawaywhatever-on-whether-or?source=share

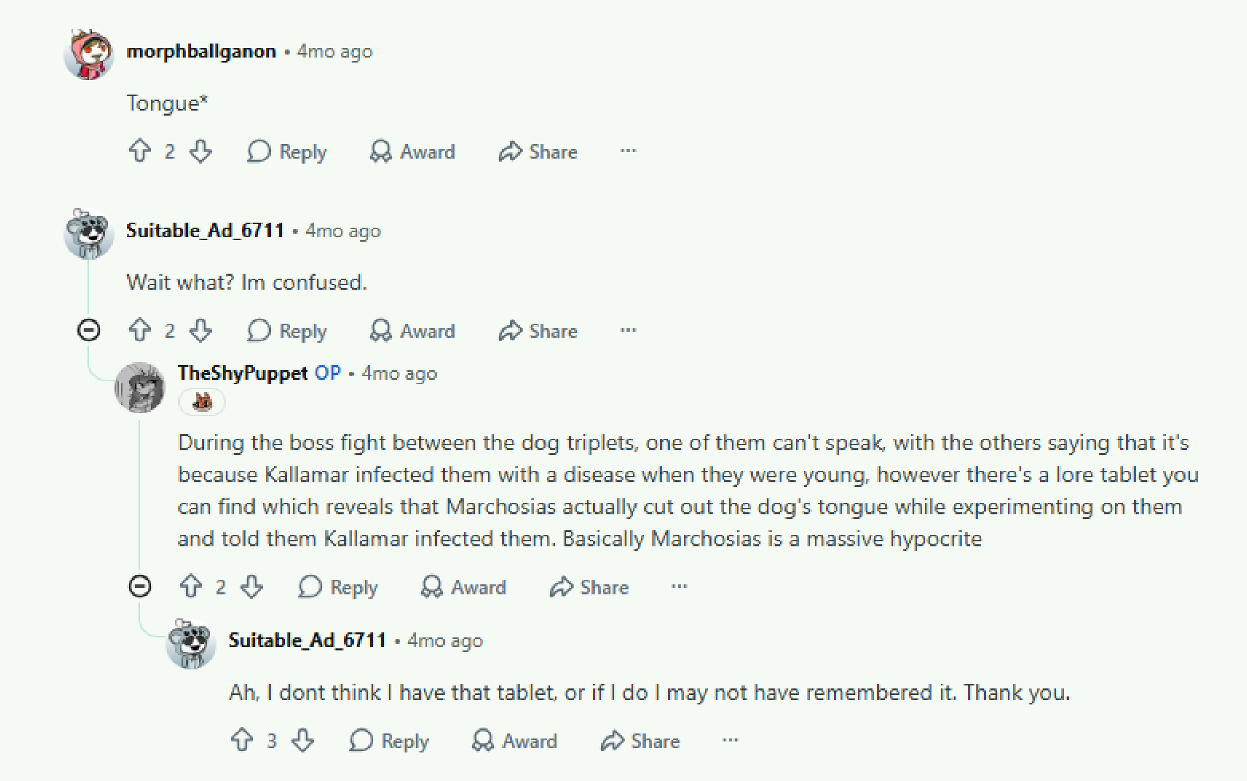
…All the examples of the people bringing up the Colonialist Allegory Theory on random fanart posts unprompted. Or their opinion that Marchosias is a hypocrite who cut out Mestor's tongue. Treating those things as fact all the while... The dog-piling on people pointing out that the Lamb is in the wrong for slaughtering the Free Pack or that Marchosias is correct about Gods. Sometimes it's just straight up lies about what happened in the game.



morphballganon • 4mo ago

Tongue*

Suitable_Ad_6711 • 4mo ago

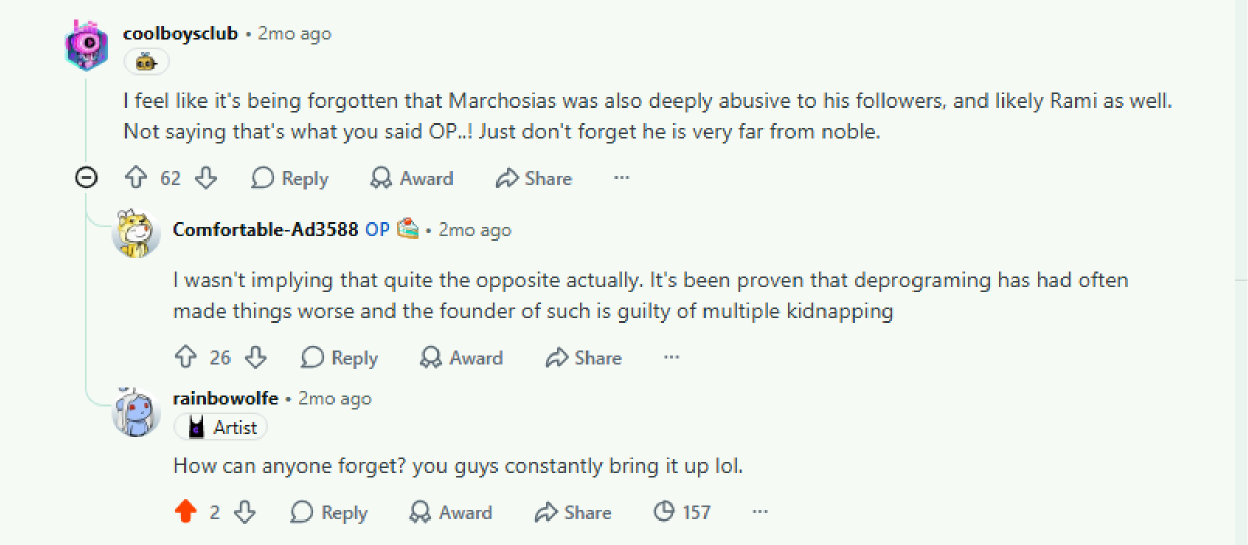
Wait what? Im confused.

TheShyPuppet OP • 4mo ago

During the boss fight between the dog triplets, one of them can't speak, with the others saying that it's because Kallamar infected them with a disease when they were young, however there's a lore tablet you can find which reveals that Marchosias actually cut out the dog's tongue while experimenting on them and told them Kallamar infected them. Basically Marchosias is a massive hypocrite

Suitable_Ad_6711 • 4mo ago

Ah, I dont think I have that tablet, or if I do I may not have remembered it. Thank you.



coolboysclub • 2mo ago

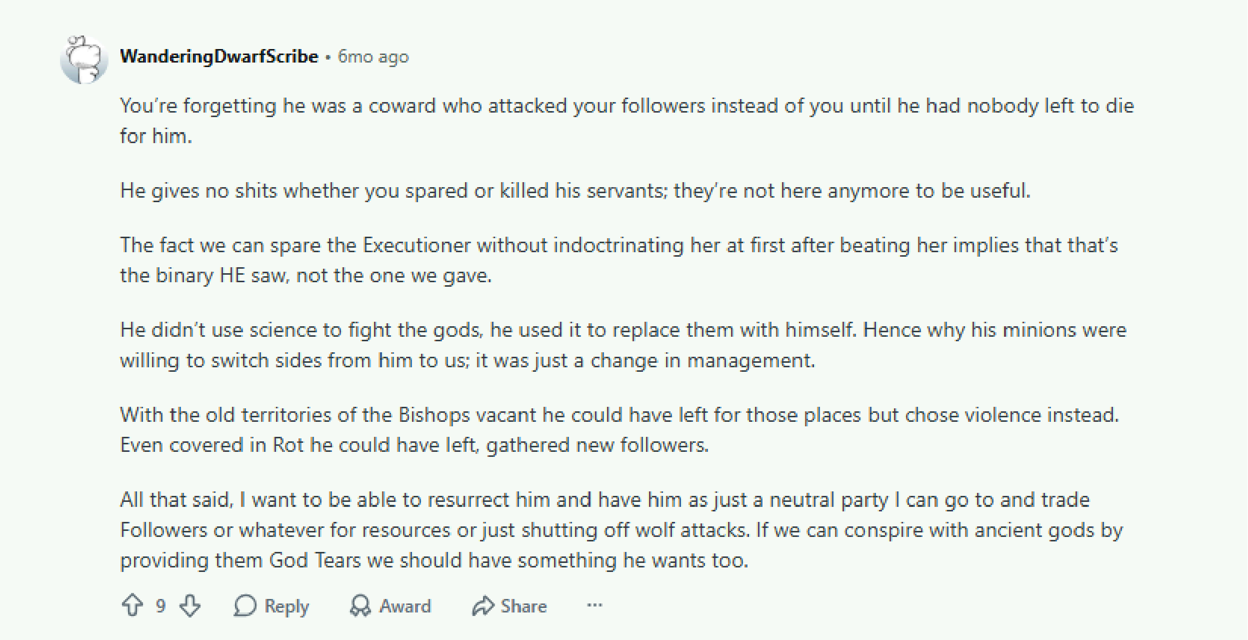
I feel like it's being forgotten that Marchosias was also deeply abusive to his followers, and likely Rami as well. Not saying that's what you said OP..! Just don't forget he is very far from noble.

Comfortable-Ad3588 OP • 2mo ago

I wasn't implying that quite the opposite actually. It's been proven that deprograming has had often made things worse and the founder of such is guilty of multiple kidnapping

rainbowolfe • 2mo ago

How can anyone forget? you guys constantly bring it up lol.



WanderingDwarfScribe • 6mo ago

You're forgetting he was a coward who attacked your followers instead of you until he had nobody left to die for him.

He gives no shits whether you spared or killed his servants; they're not here anymore to be useful.

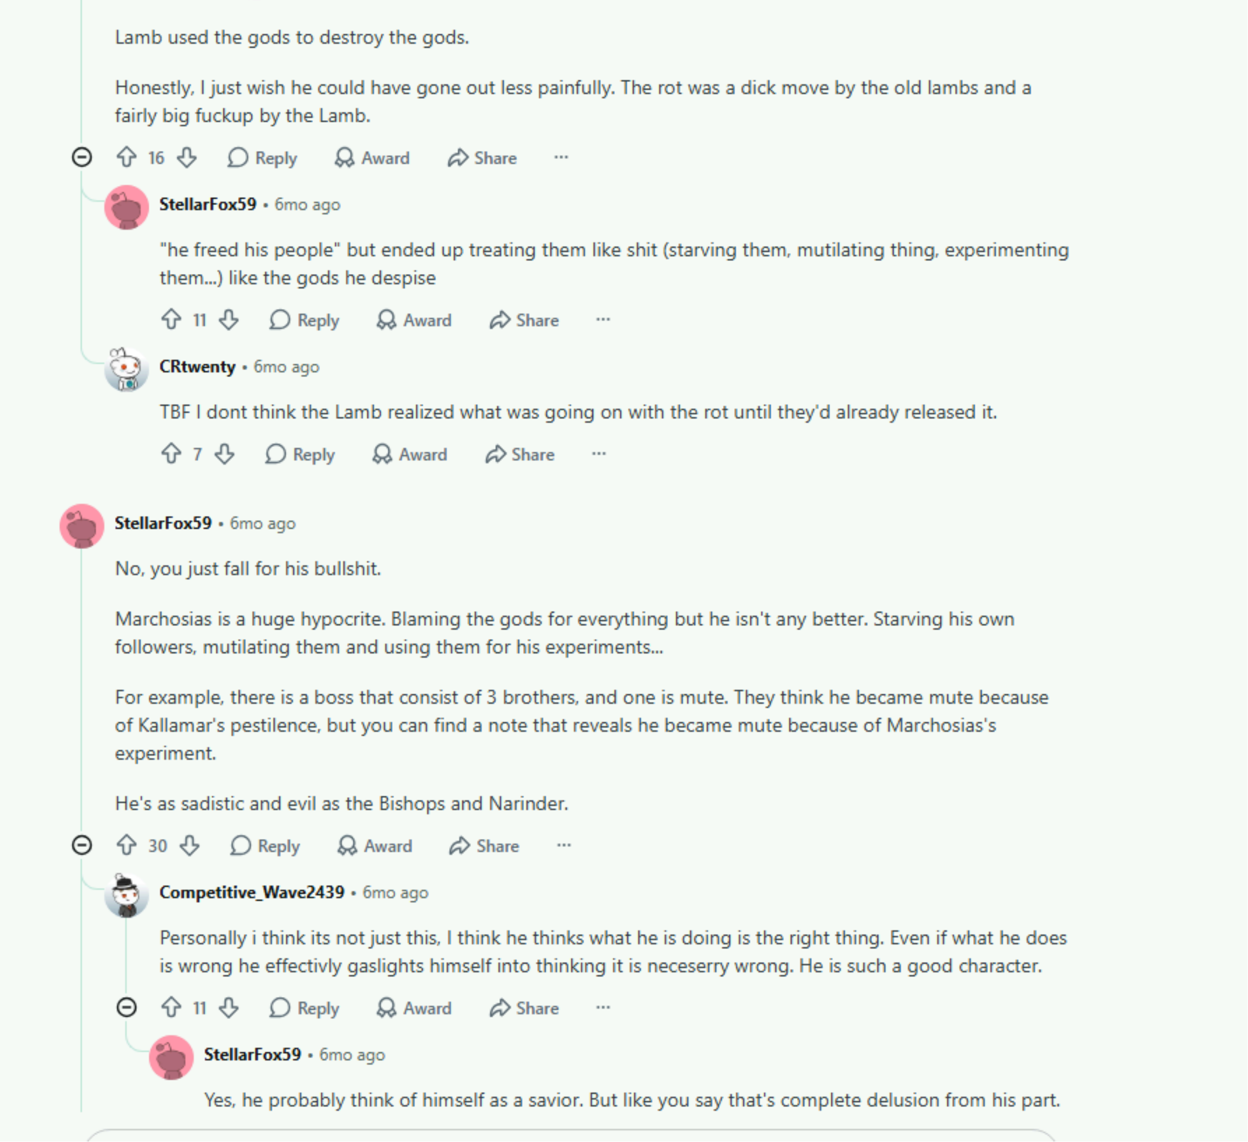
The fact we can spare the Executioner without indoctrinating her at first after beating her implies that that's the binary HE saw, not the one we gave.

He didn't use science to fight the gods, he used it to replace them with himself. Hence why his minions were willing to switch sides from him to us; it was just a change in management.

With the old territories of the Bishops vacant he could have left for those places but chose violence instead. Even covered in Rot he could have left, gathered new followers.

All that said, I want to be able to resurrect him and have him as just a neutral party I can go to and trade Followers or whatever for resources or just shutting off wolf attacks. If we can conspire with ancient gods by providing them God Tears we should have something he wants too.

But I came to the conclusion that it doesn't matter. What's happening is shitty regardless of how much someone wants to glaze Marchosias. Or how accurate or inaccurate that glaze is.



Lamb used the gods to destroy the gods.

Honestly, I just wish he could have gone out less painfully. The rot was a dick move by the old lambs and a fairly big fuckup by the Lamb.

StellarFox59 • 6mo ago

"he freed his people" but ended up treating them like shit (starving them, mutilating thing, experimenting them...) like the gods he despise

CRtwenty • 6mo ago

TBF I dont think the Lamb realized what was going on with the rot until they'd already released it.

StellarFox59 • 6mo ago

No, you just fall for his bullshit.

Marchosias is a huge hypocrite. Blaming the gods for everything but he isn't any better. Starving his own followers, mutilating them and using them for his experiments...

For example, there is a boss that consist of 3 brothers, and one is mute. They think he became mute because of Kallamar's pestilence, but you can find a note that reveals he became mute because of Marchosias's experiment.

He's as sadistic and evil as the Bishops and Narinder.

Competitive_Wave2439 • 6mo ago

Personally i think its not just this, I think he thinks what he is doing is the right thing. Even if what he does is wrong he effectivly gaslights himself into thinking it is neceserry wrong. He is such a good character.

StellarFox59 • 6mo ago

Yes, he probably think of himself as a savior. But like you say that's complete delusion from his part.

Like. I don't care if Marchosias skinned Mestor and wore it to the gala, he's completely in the right in this conflict, and nothing the Lamb does to him or the Pack is justifiable, because genocide isn't justifiable. How can you possibly come to the conclusion that it ever is?

By definition, that is what the Lamb is doing to the Free Pack, because they are a unified group being targeted for their religious affiliation (the lack of it) and species. ((Their "race" as you guys keep calling it for the lambs)). We are literally told to cull this group twice. Do y'all know what that word means?

You people mock others for their reading and analysis skills, but completely disregard the text to a flabbergasting degree. It is still genocide even if you believe with all your heart it's being done as revenge for colonialism, "displacement", and ""cultural erasure"".

It's not about how good-aligned Marchosias is or isn't, it's about how genocide. Isn't. Justifiable. And yet you're all sitting here arguing that it is because of things he, canonically, may or may not have done outside of his conflict with the Lamb.

Y'all don't think it's, maybe, a little targeted to post about how anyone who thinks Marchosias is the good guy/hero of the story is unintelligent… after only like three people did so? Y'all act afraid of conflict, but then you set people up to be attacked.

People shouldn't have to be afraid of talking about a fictional character, lest they get dog-piled for straying from the Moderator-Approved Opinion. And yet, people are. Not because of me or Lori or our friends. But because of people who think Marchosias is a "massive hypocrite" and a colonizer.

Because of people who forget that their opinion is not canon, and determine everyone must be racist/bigoted/problematic based on interpretations that don't mesh well with their own.

[The Audacity]

Save for the Final Statements section, this is where this document originally ended. 100+ pages seemed like more than enough. But Nova truly had the absolute audacity to give us a “final warning” after being informed that we had made some accusations towards them publicly. It’d be funny if it wasn’t so fucking infuriating.

They’re surely going to delete that post when this goes live, so screenshots of it will be posted here to forever immortalize your final attempt to lie your way out of this.

Making this post was, in fact, a poor decision on their end. This call-out is the result of the poor decisions they've been making since February.

"Notice how quiet and well behaved I am" is a really weird thing to say in this situation. I'm going to assume Nova doesn't know what demure means. They seem to think they are morally righteous for not publicly sharing the names of people they think are 'literal neo-nazi race scientists'.

Fuck off, Nova. We aren't praising you for not publicly saying our names. This callout is shit. /ref Off to a really poor start. Nova doesn't even finish the first sentence before launching into its tirade. Several concerned dms that the "weirdo racists"... what? What were they about?

My comment was not made unprompted. I barely said anything to them. And it was not on their fandom sideblog. See here.

"Random fandom blogs" they don't follow or know? Huh, that's weird, because it and Genrefluid (under Woolhaven-Defender) regularly reblog from each other.
They also clearly know Mukkie and Silba. See here.

And Sasha. And Lamb-kind. See here

I never accused anyone of being sockpuppets lol. Onnus is on Nova to show proof I did.
Lori never claimed to receive any anon hate. Its askbox and DMs are closed.

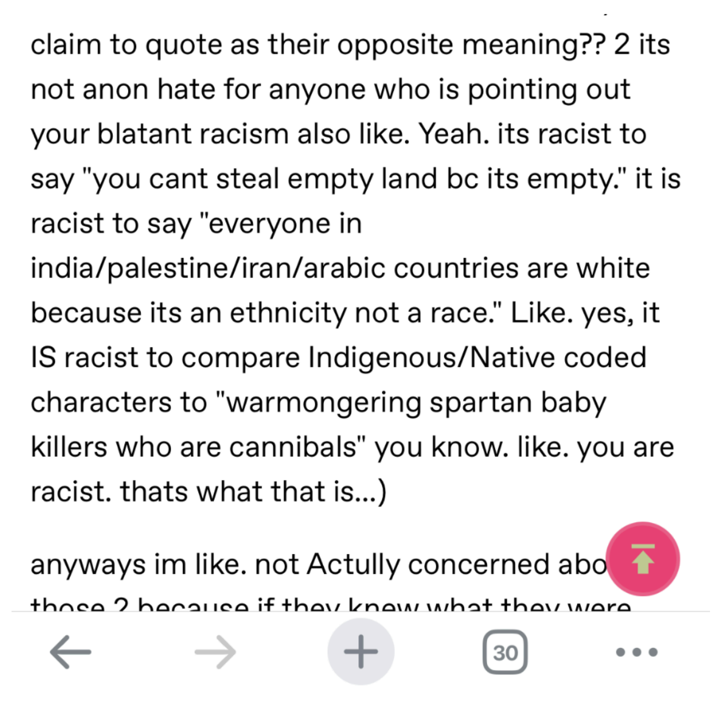
1. I haven’t done this. I told them who I was when they started shit with me and quite literaly told them i was blocking and wouldn’t engage anymore and. I haven’t lol? I also made it very clear I didn’t have an issue with them liking fictional characters or having different “headcanons” lmao? My issue is that you are spewing actual fucking racism and genocide apologia and I quite literally assumed you were confused and had mistaken the resources you claim to quote as their opposite meaning??

Everything in their section of the doc confirms that Nova did, in fact, send in some of the anons, and that they were the one who started shit with me. See here.

Nova never told me who they were, they only told me they weren’t Jir. See here.

“It's not about fiction” You’re right, it’s about you feeling you have the right to harass people for not enabling you and kissing your ass.

And as for that final line, this document thoroughly proves the one who’s confused here is Nova. Everyone in this circle is spreading misinformation and using dangerous rhetoric to defend fictional sheep. This level of delusion is astounding.



claim to quote as their opposite meaning?? 2 its not anon hate for anyone who is pointing out your blatant racism also like. Yeah. its racist to say "you cant steal empty land bc its empty." it is racist to say "everyone in india/palestine/iran/arabic countries are white because its an ethnicity not a race." Like. yes, it IS racist to compare Indigenous/Native coded characters to "warmongering spartan baby killers who are cannibals" you know. like. you are racist. thats what that is...)

anyways im like. not Actully concerned abo

2. It’s not anon hate for anyone who is pointing out your blatant racism also like. Yeah. its racist to say “you can’t steal empty land because it’s empty.” It is racist to say “everyone in india/palestine/iran/arabic countries are white because its an ethnicity not a race.” Like. yes, it IS racist to compare Indigenous/Native coded characters to “warmongering spartan baby killers who are cannibals” you know. Like. you are racist. Thats what that is…

They riddled it with insults, strawmans, and ad hominem attacks. Even if what they were saying in those messages were true (it wasn’t), it was still anonymous hatemail lmfao. Like? Be serious.

I have thoroughly explained why Nova and their friends are misunderstanding what terra nullius is. It is not racist to correctly define colonialism. See here. And here. And here.

“Everyone in india/palestine/iran/arabic countries are white” is a racist thing to say. I didn’t say that though. Like at all. See this addressed here. Please work on your own reading comprehension skills if you’re going to make it a hobby to insult others.

Nova mentioning cannibalism here suggests they were still viewing my posts as of July 13th, which is when I joked about lamb cannibalism. Doesn’t act like someone who’s “moved past this”.

That aside, yes I agree. Comparing the lambs—who are canonically warmongering, Spartan, baby killers—to Indigenous people/Natives is racist. That’s been, like, my whole point.

I genuinely don’t think Nova knows what the words racism or racist mean. They just randomly apply it to anything they think sounds mean. If they actually do, then they should be able to explain why these things they’ve listed are racist, just as I’ve explained why the things they said are racist.

Thoroughly. I’ve also already covered why “I shouldn’t have to explain, it’s obvious” is a cop out that won’t work here. Racism is not based on vibes and it's harmful to treat it that way. See here.

anyways im like. not Actully concerned about those 2 because if they knew what they were talking about to begin with theyd realize whoever is harassing them (if anyone) isnt me bc ive been fucking homeless the past 3 months until LITERALY yesterday when i was.moving in somewhwre, i twisted (and possibly broke lol) my ankle v recently and had no fucking time to waste on internet nonsense, and i dont have consistent computer/phone access which ive....also been very transparent about if you scroll back tp may on my blog lmfao? like. Anyways, i’m like. Not actually concerned about those two, because if they knew what they were talking about to begin with they’d realize whoever is harassing them (if anyone) isn’t me because I’ve been fucking homeless the past three months until LITERALLY yesterday when I was. Moving in somewhere, I twisted (and possibly broke lol) my ankle very recently and had no fucking time to waste on internet nonsense, and I don’t have consistent computer/phone access which I’ve… also been very transparent about if you scroll back to May on my blog lmfao? like.

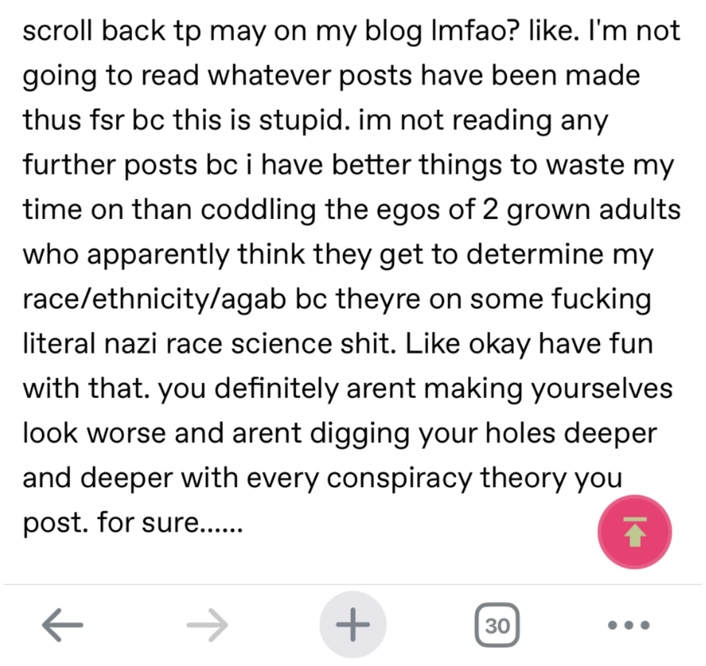
And here comes the sob-story. They’re pretending this is relevant, when it isn’t. I’ve been homeless too, big fucking whoop. That’s the American experience.

Not only have they admitted to being the one I exchanged DMs with (so they weren’t too busy for that :3), but you don’t need consistent computer/phone access to send a couple of anons over Tumblr. The DMs they sent me were harassment. The anons they obviously sent were harassment. Spreading rumors about shit we never did (including this sorry excuse for a call-out post they’ve made) is harassment.

Even if they don’t personally know every anon that sent in a message, they’re in my inbox because of the things they said. The twisted version of events that they made up.

You’ve been spreading rumors and gossip for the last three months regardless of being homeless or not. We have evidence of that. More lying and “woe is me” bullshit. I assume your ass will end back up on the street once your roomie realizes who you are. You’ll be yapping off about how everyone else is stupid and you’re so smart then too.



scroll back tp may on my blog lmfao? like. I'm not going to read whatever posts have been made thus fsr bc this is stupid. im not reading any further posts bc i have better things to waste my time on than coddling the egos of 2 grown adults who apparently think they get to determine my race/ethnicity/agab bc theyre on some fucking literal nazi race science shit. Like okay have fun with that. you definitely arent making yourselves look worse and arent digging your holes deeper and deeper with every conspiracy theory you post. for sure......

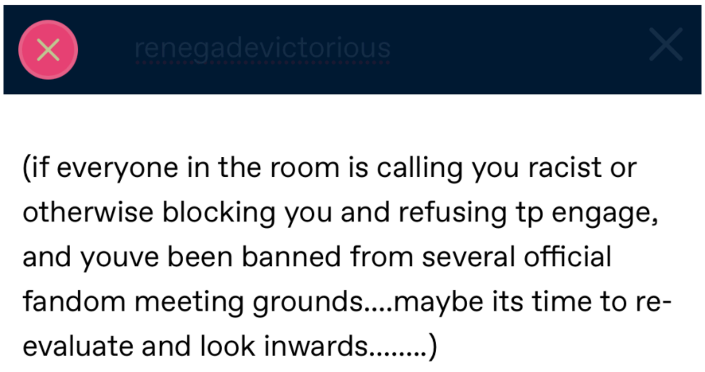
Oh? Nova isn't going to read the things we wrote? Am I supposed to be shocked? They lecture me, get mad that I didn't believe today's episode of Shit Nova Made Up In Their Head, and start calling me a neo-nazi based on literally nothing. Because they're so used to their ass-kissing friends eating up whatever it is they have to say.

They self identified their own race lol. It's screenshotted. They're white. We never attempted to identify their ethnicity because we don't care? The onus is on Nova to show proof that we did these things.

I would love to see exactly what the fuck Nova is talking about when they refer to this "nazi race science", though.

You and your friends were the ones assuming Wolfe and I's biological sexes with your little TME anonymous message. You and your friends were the ones calling Wolfe white in their askbox. You did that shit, not us.

And I don't think we are making ourselves look bad by exposing you for your abusive ways. You're just scared. We aren't going to take your shit anymore.



(if everyone in the room is calling you racist or otherwise blocking you and refusing tp engage, and youve been banned from several official fandom meeting grounds....maybe its time to re-evaluate and look inwards........)

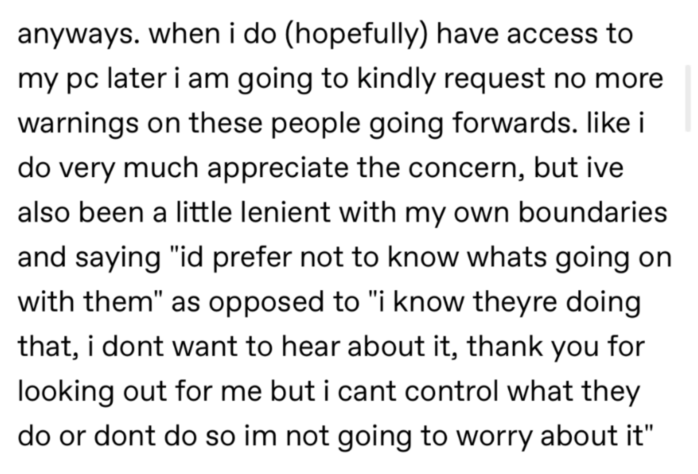
(if everyone in the room is calling you racist or otherwise blocking you and refusing to engage, and you've been banned from several official fandom meetings grounds… maybe it's time to re-evaluate and look inwards….)

Hey, did you guys notice they've used that line before? Their lack of originality really was their downfall. See here.

Again, onus is on Nova to prove these claims.

We were banned from a single area- the official Massive Monster discord server. They give people the boot all the time regardless if they're at fault or not. It would amuse greatly if Trooper has YOU banned once I turn this doc in to him. It's important to me that all lies are cleared, and he was also lied to by your group. Him and the other idiots poorly moderating the server.

There is no "everyone". It's you, your clique, and anyone naive enough to believe you. You're nothing but a bully.



anyways. when i do (hopefully) have access to my pc later i am going to kindly request no more warnings on these people going forwards. like i do very much appreciate the concern, but ive also been a little lenient with my own boundaries and saying "id prefer not to know whats going on with them" as opposed to "i know theyre doing that, i dont want to hear about it, thank you for looking out for me but i cant control what they do or dont do so im not going to worry about it"

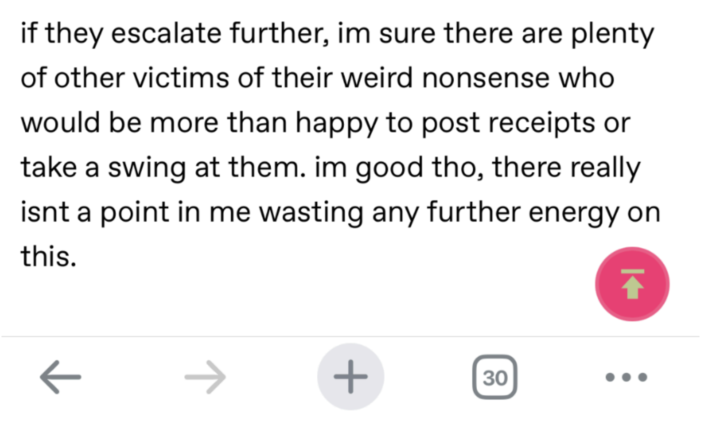
20 points for me! Blatant admission that they intend to ignore this. Luckily, this doc isn't really for them. Not entirely. It's mostly to show everyone what an ignorant, lying piece of shit they are and clear the air about who's actually harassing people in this fandom.



if they escalate further, im sure there are plenty of other victims of their weird nonsense who would be more than happy to post receipts or take a swing at them. im good tho, there really isnt a point in me wasting any further energy on this.

There are no victims and we are not afraid of you. You better fucking run with your tail between your legs.

My ask box stayed open, and anons were never turned off. No victims came forward.

Nova's not posting receipts because they don't have any. Their ongoing feud with "the racists" is something they entirely made up. They've kept it up for months, but now, suddenly they don't have the energy for this? Is it not funny anymore?? Dick.

And you need to shut the fuck up, you shit stirring ass-kisser. Me, you dumb bitch.

Oh! And to no one’s surprise, here are their two friends parroting its lies. Just like they did to Splooper, as seen here. You three suck. Grow up.

[Final Statements]

Nova is a chronic liar. Genrefluid is a dramamonger. Strawberry is an abuser. These are the people y'all choose to associate with. These are the people y'all choose to blindly trust. If someone would lie about someone else being a nazi, what else are they lying about? Something to consider if you continue to associate with them.

I have no desire to interact with any of these people. They're among the most rude, ignorant, and pretentious people I've ever had the misfortune of crossing paths with. The only reason two out of three are still receiving attention is because they have not gotten over it, and they can't stop running their mouths (in public and private) about the series of lies they made the fuck up. And their bullshit keeps making it back to my inbox.

We never harassed them—or anyone, for that matter. They were publicly called out by Lori after months of dealing with their bullshit. They're childish losers who act afraid of a caricature they made up.

To the rest of you named, and anyone else who knows what they've done, do better. It's cliche, but that's really all I've got. Being black in fandom is exhausting. I can never just enjoy myself, I have to explain why racist rhetoric is racist because some douchebag from Florida would rather think that I'm fucking stupid, than acknowledge that their self-described "racist mother" raised them to have racist beliefs that they clearly haven't unlearned yet.

Every single lie these people told was easily disprovable—including the accusations of racism—and y'all did more than just believe them. You validated and spread them. Most of you don't know us. I'm not saying you had to defend us. You could've just… stayed out of it? Like, come on now.

I also feel the need to point out that the behavior of this group is dangerous. It can lead to people self harming or committing suicide. Having multiple people lying about and attacking someone damages a person's mental state, especially if they're already vulnerable. I doubt most of you would be able to handle having someone else's blood on your hands.

All this talk about being "mindful" and "kind". You haven't been. Oh, and if your goal is to kill us, you can stop trying. It's not going to work. You dumbfucks aren't the first people to tell me to kill myself LMAO. I don’t care what you do with yourselves next as long as it doesn’t involve me, my friends, or other innocent people.

This document showcases a bigger problem than just a couple immature jackasses who obsessively stalk and harass people on the internet. It’s the fact that so many of you believed these lies without verifying them. You perpetuated them. You joined in. And the biggest players in this situation have been other adults, many older than I am [24].

It’s a common fandom/internet problem to spread rumors, catastrophize, and attack others baselessly. BUT that doesn’t mean we should engage with it. And I know half of you bastards know about these issues because you whine about them constantly. Despite being the ones who do the shit you apparently don’t condone.

I had no idea who Nova even was before Wolfe found them and brought their actions to light. We have never spoken, yet they are obsessed with me. Ya’ll really just uplifted a repulsive little misogynist who misgendered and lied about me for months on end. For what? Me talking about fiction in a way you didn’t like? This isn’t pathetic to you? To behave in this way. To be misogynistic, transphobic, and ableist to others over a poorly written video game?

Even now, they’re stalking me and Wolfe and reblogging posts about how our new interest is problematic [it isn’t]. Listen, I don’t know what the fuck is wrong with that cunt OR their enablers, but leave me and Wolfe out of it. Nova, you will not win playing trauma Olympics with me. And I don’t care about your sob story. I want you gone because you’re that worthless. You exist to harm others. And I know you won’t change. You are content being babied by enablers of your abusive tendencies. I’m telling you as a fellow trauma survivor that I do not care about your past and that it is not an excuse.

Instead of addressing anything we have put in this doc, I’m sure some of you will hit us with the “Yeah Nova spread racist comments about Black hair, was transphobic, lied about you, and stalked you for months on end BUT you were mean and that’s worse!!!”. Whatever. I do not care. You can police my tone or argue that I’ve gone too far, but it really doesn’t matter. I will do what it takes to get this piece of shit to leave us alone. If their enablers can’t call them off, someone else has to deal with them.

And that’s the doc :3 Have anything to add? We’re happy to hear it.
